April 15, 2019 -

St. Michael, Barbados based DigitalRez is pleased to announce that their latest update for RezExpert is currently live. The international property management and reservation company makes a priority of keeping RezExpert up to date in order to facilitate the requirements and usability of both its clients and their guests. The new April update packs in new features, including: Point of Sale Activity Modification, A Client Search Dialog, and changes to reports. Meanwhile, the update also adds bug fixes and tuning up the software's backend.

DigitalRez's updates are always released alongside a publication detailing the changes that have been made. This is due to the company's commitment to being transparent with their clients regarding the modifications made. In practice, this allows clients to quickly get a grasp on new features and assimilate them into an existing workflow as smoothly as possible.

Designed for resort networks of any size in any location, RezExpert is a comprehensive reservation and property management software solution hosted entirely in the Amazon Cloud, giving it a host of benefits that include reduced IT hardware costs, centralized business processes, and greatly improved software costs. It is ideally suited for a wide variety of applications, including hotels, campgrounds, Bed-and-Breakfasts (B&Bs), marinas, condos, and even multi-resort networks.

Furthermore, the proprietary reservation management system's online functionality means that its entire suite of services, options, settings, and so on are always accessible from any internet capable device, such as a Windows or Mac computer, tablet, or smartphone.

DigitalRez's Software as a Service (SaaS) model presents clients with many other benefits as well. Aside from allowing them to supervise all property, owner, and revenue management tasks from any single location, RezExpert gives them access to extensive data analytics (revenue statistics, auditing, and reporting), PCI III compliant payment processes, instantaneous and centralized system wide reporting capabilities, and much more.

This versatility effectively makes any device that can connect to the internet a mobile office from which executives, managers, operators, and other authorized personnel can engage with their business via the RezExpert system. The software solution is capable of handling multi-property organizations, Homeowners Association (HOA) management, and revenue tracking.

Naturally, this enhanced level of access is supported by an adherence to the latest and most advanced in commercial internet security protocols, a feature that accompanies all of DigitalRez's services. Furthermore, this attention to the minutiae of software security is handled entirely by the company itself so that clients are free to focus on making sure that their own businesses or properties operate at peak performance. As a result, executives and managers can rely on RezExpert to help them facilitate sensible, low-risk buying decisions.

In addition, RezExpert is fully customizable to a client's particular needs, utilizing unique modules to ensure they are able to manipulate the software's capabilities to its full potential in every situation. These include Dynamic Pricing, Down To The Minute, Online Bookings, Map Reservations, Tasks & Notes and many more. If requested, DigitalRez is delighted to give prospective clients a quote and free demonstration to exhibit how RezExpert could benefit them and their business.

The company's enthusiasm for RezExpert's abilities is shared by the clients who rely on it as well. One grateful client gave the software suite a 5-Star review, saying, "Well, I will have to say that I have been using DigitalRez for many years and have never been disappointed in the service that they have provided. Even with the new update and software, they continue to do an amazing job and always take care of whatever is needed on my end."

Another client said in their 5-Star review that, "Blaine is so helpful. After three years, we decided to move to the online system. Blaine took his time and made sure that every question I had was answered. He was so kind, calm, and helpful as I stumbled my way through the process! I highly recommend DigitalRez and their fantastic customer service! Been using their software since 2002.?
