FineNaturals Releases New Cacao Powder Recipes On Their Website

July 16, 2015

July 16, 2015 -
FineNaturals, a health and nutrition company, have released their new cacao powder on Amazon, on http://www.amazon.com/Unsweetened-FineNaturals-Superfood-Antioxidant-Flavonoids/dp/B00YOGWWE8.
In conjunction, they have released information on their website about some of the fantastic foods that can be made using this powder. FineNaturals is a small company that is committed to providing their customers with alternatives to mass produced products, as well as showing them the best ways to use these.

FineNaturals' Henriette says, "We only source the finest ingredients so that our customers can receive quality that they can trust. Our cacao powder is an organic Arriba Criollo dark cacao powder that is non-GMO certified, non alkalized product without any added sugars. It is raw, as well as being vegan friendly. Our website shows just some of the recipes this powder can be used in."

The company has made a true commitment to their customers, aiming to nurture relationships. This is why they continually offer new features, benefits and ideas on each of their products. For the cacao powder, they presently suggest ideas on what to do with natural chocolate, as well as offering baking tips and how to use it in hot drinks.

The company is unique due to its expertise and background. This also qualifies them to provide their customers with the necessary education to get the most benefits out of every product they offer. Additionally, they offer a free eBook with every purchase of cacao powder that has even more tips and ideas.

"Our website has many wonderful uses and tips for our first product," adds Henriette. "By offering some simple ways to use the product, anybody is able to incorporate these delicious and wonderful ideas into their daily living. Plus, we encourage people to get creative and come up with some unique and amazing recipes and uses."

FineNaturals is also promoting their product with an exclusive special offer. Through their website on www.finenaturals.com, people can purchase their cacao powder for just $1 in exchange for their honest review. They hope that this will encourage more people to purchase the product and find out just what the rave is all about.
