April 08, 2019 -

Dependable Homebuyers located in Williamsburg is currently looking to purchase houses that have suffered damage due to flooding. The company has streamlined a process that allows them to purchase homes quickly regardless of the condition they are in. When it comes to selling a house, homeowners have three options according to the company. A homeowner can hire a realtor to sell their house for them. While this is often the first choice for many, there are costly fees involved with paying commissions and so forth. Homeowners can also try to sell their house on their own. However, this option can take quite a while because typical homeowners do not have the resources or contacts to effectively advertise their house being for sale and must rely on advertising on and offline. Many homeowners who start out trying to sell their home themselves, end up hiring a realtor in the long run.

Dependable Homebuyers now presents homeowners with a third option for selling their home. The company offers clients with the option to sell their house quickly for cash. For those who are looking to move their property quickly, for those who are downsizing like in this article

The housing market during the year of 2018 saw many struggles. However, 2019 promises to be a better year for the real estate industry. For that reason, it is the perfect time for those who have been considering selling their home to go ahead and do so. During the previous year, mortgage rates had a great increase and this left many afraid to place their homes on the market. This is not the case with the current year.

From the first point of contact, a representative of the company will come out and do a quick inspection of the property. From that point, they will prepare a fair offer for the homeowner. This offer does not place the homeowner under any type of obligation. Should they accept the offer, closing is set up and takes place within 7 days.
