Chicago, Illinois based McDonagh Demolition is pleased to announce that they have a whole new website to celebrate more than 20 years of providing reliable and professional general construction services to residents of Chicago and the surrounding areas. The company?s new website is not only easier to navigate on mobile, but they have completely redesigned it to make it easier for clients to contact them.

Established in 1998, McDonagh Demolition has developed from a small demolition contractor to one of the major general contractors in the greater Chicago area. The company specializes in total/partial building demolitions and site related works, including excavation, grading, sanitary and storm sewer, hazardous waste removal, and tank removal (above and below ground). Tim Cahill from McDonagh Demolition explains that their team of experts and professionals utilize the latest models of loaders, excavators, hydraulic breakers, skid steers, compactors, compressors, and a variety of hand tools and other equipment necessary to successfully complete the construction or demolition project in question.

?As a Class A-rated company, McDonagh Demolition owns, operates, and maintains a substantial fleet of power equipment and heavy machinery. We also have a team of talented, experienced, and professional subcontractors, technicians, and staff to ensure that your projects will be completed with quality workmanship, effectively, efficiently, on time, and most importantly, within the allocated budget,? says Cahill.

He continues that the company?s wealth of experience in the construction field enable them to successfully execute all that is required of them, beginning with permit processing, engineering and testing, up to the demolition and construction itself as well as onsite project management. ?We accept both small and large scale projects, managing multiple contracts and all trades because we have the people, equipment, and experience to handle everything. Our mission is to always provide our clients with reliable and professional services, fulfilling their construction needs, under any conditions,? affirms Cahill.

As noted on the company?s website, McDonagh Demolition offers a full range of construction-related services. With their general contracting services, they oversee the entire project schedule while managing all vendors, subcontractors, and trades, as well as keeping the owner up to date on all the activities on site. Next, they have the skills and requisite expertise in handling all types of demolition work, from large industrial buildings to residential or selective interior projects. They also have years of experience with the installation, repair, and removal of all types of storm sewer, sanitary sewer, and water service lines.

In addition, Cahill states that the construction company has completed various projects that included asbestos abatement, hazardous, non-hazardous, and special waste disposal, as well as above/below ground storage tank removal and disposal. He also points out that McDonagh Demolition is dedicated to utilizing environmentally friendly practices such as recycling construction materials like lumber, metal, asphalt, masonry, concrete, and more.

?With the help of our power equipment and heavy machinery, we are also able to excavate, backfill, and grade project sites of all sizes and shapes,? states Cahill. Furthermore, he explains that the company offers professional advice to site owners and guides them all throughout the phases of construction from planning and design up to the close-out and grand openings. He also points out that they help owners in readying their properties for future development or expansion if necessary.

Those looking for an established contractor in the greater Chicago area may visit McDonagh Demolition?s website to learn more about the company and their full range of construction-related services. Through the years, they have successfully completed numerous projects including Mt. Greenwood Annex, Belmont Cragin Elementary, and many more. Cahill states that since 2008, McDonagh Demolition has been working with numerous entities, such as the Public Building Commission of Chicago, Chicago Department of Environment, Chicago Board of Education, Chicago Department of Aviation, and Cook County together with several private organizations which include the Mariano?s at Ashland Ave. and Elston Ave.

Furthermore, McDonagh Demolition takes pride in the ability of their experienced estimators to generate accurate cost proposals and satisfy any project schedule under any circumstance. The expertise of their project managers to coordinate all aspects of the project is also highly commended by many of the previous clients and institutions that they have worked with.

More information can be found on the company?s new website. Alternatively, interested parties may visit their Chicago office to speak with one of their construction experts. Clients may also want to connect with McDonagh Demolition through its official Facebook page to learn more about their latest news and important announcements.
