April 20, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Ontario based Bulldog Heating & Cooling St. Catharines is pleased to announce that they are willing to double their clients' Enbridge rebates, giving them up to $3300 in savings on select heating and cooling systems during the month of April. With the end of winter in sight, spending more than what is absolutely necessary to keep what remains of the chill at bay makes little sense.

Due to this, Bulldog aims to help its clients save as much as possible during the last few months of winter. Their recent partnership with Mr. Furnace Heating and Air Conditioning, on which more information can be found at <https://bulldogheating.com/e2zw>, allows the company to provide their services to a much wider area.

Bulldog Heating & Cooling St. Catharines offers repair, maintenance, and installation of both heating and cooling services all across Ontario. Customers looking for emergency service or a free quote for a replacement heating and cooling system will find the company's fully licensed and insured technicians ready to provide services of the highest quality. Among several HVAC companies in the area, Bulldog Heating & Cooling is the number one choice among homeowners when it comes to servicing heating and air conditioning units.

“We intend to preserve our reputation by continuing to pursue excellence in the services we render, including the repair, maintenance, or installation of all types of HVAC units,” says the company. Whatever type or brand of HVAC unit, Bulldog’s experts have the knowledge and experience necessary to repair and maintain it.

The company has a number of experienced professionals on hand to repair any issues a customer might have with their heating or cooling system. They advise customers to keep their eyes open for a few telltale signs of trouble, at which point the company should be brought in to address the issue professionally.

A dripping AC unit may be a sign of any of a multitude of problems. The AC’s condensate drain line may be clogged with dust, dirt, sludge, or mold, which may force the water in certain directions and thus cause dripping. Another possible cause is damage in the tubing. Left unattended these problems might grow to the point where the entire unit has to be replaced.

Sometimes, an AC that doesn’t provide enough cool air may have a faulty compressor or murky fins. An AC that provides extremely cold air even when turned to a moderate setting may be a sign of a malfunctioning pump. Anyone in the Ontario area who notices their AC dripping or not working efficiently is advised to contact Bulldog Heating & Cooling.

The company’s recent partnership with Mr. Furnace is believed to be the beginning of a new era in the company’s service. As Bob Bies, a spokesperson for the company states, “We’re very happy to announce our partnership with Mr. Furnace. This means we will be better able to serve the heating and cooling needs of St. Catharines and nearby areas. HVAC units can encounter problems from time to time, so you need an expert in air conditioner repair company in St. Catharines, ON, who you can readily contact. The buildup of dirt on the condenser coil placed outside and caked on grime can push the system to work harder and waste a lot of energy. We stand out from the rest of the HVAC companies in the area because we always give our full commitment every time a customer reaches out for a service call.” More on the partnership with Mr. Furnace Heating and Air Conditioning can be found at <https://bulldogheating.com/6st5>.

Keeping one’s heater running during the winter months is of great importance, and it is relatively easy to spot the signs that a unit needs repairs. Inability to generate sufficient heat, strange noises or a faulty thermostat may indicate the need to consult with a professional. “We’ll make sure your machine will hum back to life and generate just the right amount of heat in your home amid the freezing weather outside,” says Bulldog Heating & Cooling.

In addition to their heating unit repair services, Bulldog offers their repair and installation services for cooling units, particularly during the summer months. During this hot period, having a working cooling system is very important. As Bulldog Heating & Cooling says, "During the peak of summer, you need your cooling system to make life bearable inside your home." With this in mind, the company's team of qualified technicians strives to ensure that each client's cooling system is online and running at all times.
