April 17, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Telus and Cambridge Electronics Incorporated has announced a new offer for customers. The Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta company recently announced that new customers can now take advantage of their Telus SHS and internet with a new $200 credit offer.

Cambridge Electronics Incorporated states that they are pleased to announce this new offer for new customers who are planning on signing up for Telus Security and internet at the same time. When the new customers signs up, they can receive $200 in bill credits when signing up for SmartHome Security on a 3-year term. The customer must also sign up for internet on a 2-year term.

Dan LHeureux, a representative for the company says, "This is a special limited time offer and customers will need to act fast. To be eligible for the offer, customers who need to sign up for SHS and new internet on the same order."

The company states that this offer is only in effect for new customers who have never had internet or SHS through the company. LHeureux states that those who are interested can visit the company on their website to read through all of the requirements to be eligible for the offer.

?The offer is stackable with mobile and home,? LHeureux adds. ?It is stackable with FFH promo pricing but not stackable with gift with purchase. We highly recommend that anyone who wants to receive this limited time $200 activation credit visit our website to read through the list of qualifications and then contact us to start their service.?

Cambridge Electronics is an authorized dealer of Telus products and includes a team of specialists that can assist customers with any of their internet or other technological needs. LHeureux states that customers who are new to the area can contact them to speak with a specialist who will help them to determine what specific services will best suit their needs.

The company provides Telus products for business and personal use, and helps customers to select the right wireless device for their needs and match that device to the right accessories, whether integrating with products or web services that they already have or signing them up for new services to help meet those needs.

?We always encourage new customers to speak with a representative to ensure that they are getting everything that they need,? says LHeureux. ?We want our customers to consider us as their own personal communications hub. Whether they need Telus internet or any other service, we can help them to figure it out.?

The company states that new customers can learn all of the details of their new offer by visiting them on their official company website. The website offers detailed information about all of their services, as well as eligibility information for the new bundling deal. Those who are interested can also connect with the company via any of their social media accounts.

Cambridge Electronics provides those in the area with television, internet, mobile services, tablets, accessories and other products and services to ensure that all of their communication needs are met. The company website provides a separate page that outlines all of their current offers and giveaways for new and existing customers. Those interested in learning more about the current promotion can find that information on the company?s home page on their website.

The company urges those who need internet or Telus security to visit them online to learn more about this latest promotion. Those who prefer direct contact can find phone and email information on the website to contact the company with any questions. The website also provides an online contact form where customers can leave their information, as well as a map that gives driving directions to the company?s office. LHeureux reminds customers in the area that this promotion is for new customers of these services and that the promotion will not last long. Those who are interested should contact the company soon before it ends.
