

Homeowners No Longer Forced To Give A House Back To The Bank In Nashville

April 19, 2019 -

Nashville Tennessee based Dependable Homebuyers is delighted to announce that they are working hard to ensure that no one in Nashville is forced to give a house back to the bank, even if they are behind on their payments. ?Homeowners can fall behind on payment for many legitimate reasons. In these cases banks have been known to harrass debtors while applying late fees that make getting back on track nearly impossible. Many communities across the Tennessee Valley are still reeling from the foreclosure crisis of 2007 and it is our goal to ensure that homeowner who find themselves in financially difficult situations are able to sell their home at a profit before the banks take it away. We want to assure any homeowner in Nashville, particularly those who are behind on payments or have received a notice of default, that they can sell their house directly to us,? stated Evan Roberts, Dependable Homebuyers Nashville.

House sellers will be interested to know that the company was recently featured on Press Advantage, highlighting the fact that Dependable Homebuyers have built a formidable reputation throughout Nashville and beyond for offering fair market prices for virtually any home?regardless of its condition or payment status.

Homeowners will find this is true even if they are selling a flooded Nashville house.

The company can provide options for those who owe more to the bank than it is worth as well as those who have been notified by their lender that they are in default. Those who have received a notice of default have a limited time before their home is taken away and they lose everything. To help people in this situation, Dependable Homebuyers Nashville is willing to purchase their homes in as few as seven days, which will stop additional late fees being applied and allow the homeowner to walk away with as much money as possible.

Homeowners know that they are in a buyer?s market, and buyers know they have the privilege of being picky. Even if homeowners go to all the trouble of redecorating, restoring ?curb appeal? and more, they know that they will need a competitive advantage over everyone else trying to sell their homes. Furthermore, even after they finally get an offer, sellers know that they don?t control the negotiation process.

In their latest blog post, which can be viewed at https://dependablehombuyersnashville.home.blog, Dependable Homebuyers Nashville recommends enlisting the help of a real estate agent, provided they can obtain the best possible price?and to do that, they need to have a good background of experience in the local community and neighborhood. There are drawbacks, however. The complicated commission structure for real estate sales, the need to arrange open houses, and the legal processes involved in obtaining all comps, inspections, and charges after the initial offer often delay the timeline of the actual sale.

For those behind on payments, who need to move urgently, or for those looking to downsize, the sheer hassle of keeping everything pristine and listening to all the recommendations to spend more money and time beautifying a house on sale are altogether too much. ?If you are faced with a situation where you need to sell your home fast, including those who are behind on payments, give us a call and we can get you a reasonable cash offer within 24 hours,? affirmed Roberts.

Dependable Homebuyers Nashville is a local home buying company in Nashville which will buy homes in any condition or situation. Homeowners looking to sell quickly have the advantage of knowing that they can move forward with a firm they can trust to get a fair price from, thus avoiding delays, inconvenience, and unnecessary costs.

To streamline the process, the company has developed a way to ensure that the homeowner has their money in just a couple of weeks. They will take a home ?as is? (no inspections are conducted and any issues are inherited by the buyer) and give a fair offer based on the house?s market value. Additionally, this is accomplished without all the hassle of going through the traditional route of selling a home?lots of redecorating, organizing, making the house as viewable as possible whenever open houses are scheduled, and so on.
