Lethbridge, Alberta based Neu-Lite Electric Inc recently received another 5-star review from one of its many pleased customers. Having been one of the largest electric service companies for industries, businesses, and residences in the area for over 40 years, this is only the latest positive review that the company has enjoyed. The company's website can be found at <https://neu-lite-electric-inc.business.site>.

Written by Harold Street on Google Reviews, the review states that, "We had Neu-Lite install new LED light panels in our church basement and were very pleased with their work. They arrived at the agreed upon time and were extremely friendly and easy to work with. One of the electricians even used the vacuum cleaner to clean up the debris that fell from the ceiling as they took down the old fixtures. They totally cleaned up before they left and took all the old tubes and fixtures with them. We were very impressed and pleased with their service to us and would certainly contact them again for other jobs."

While indicative of their approach to working for the average customer, other businesses also have positive comments to share about the company. Securcom Technologies said, "Excellent company to work with. The project managers are very informed, helpful, and courteous in ensuring the final project completion is a success for all parties involved on all our security projects.?

Their devoted passion in their work, coupled with a great sense of responsibility, has positioned them as one of the most reliable companies in Lethbridge.
