Beneleaf, a business in Hawthorne, CA is happy to announce they have released a new travel pouch that is able to hold ten individual Lenzies. As such, it is the perfect travel companion for any photographer or someone with glasses. This travel pouch has been added to their box of 200 Lenzies lens cleaner wipes.

"Our Lenzies have been a highly popular item on Amazon for some time now," says Alyssa Sullivan from Beneleaf. "The box comes with 200 individual disposable wipes and we have now added a travel pouch so that people can carry ten wipes at the same time, in one easy place. This is a lot better than having the wipes lying about in a bag or other container loosely."

Lenzies are anti-static, anti-fog and anti-streaking. This allows people to eliminate fingerprints and other smudges safely from any glass surface, be that a car mirror, glasses, iPads, smartphones and so on. Each wipe is individually wrapped, which leaves them completely sanitary. They are small and therefore easy to carry, particularly with the new travel pouch.

When unfolded, the wipes are 5" by 6", which makes them just the perfect size. Cleaning anything takes no more than ten seconds to complete. Additionally, a single wipe is able to clean three of four different things, so long as they weren't too dirty. The cloths are very gentle and free from lint, which means that they do not leave any kind of residue behind. In fact, they can even be used to remove the static build up around screens.

The Lenzie's themselves have been very positively received on Amazon, and it is expected that the pouch will be equally popular. "These are very effective at not only removing grime and grease from glass and similar surfaces, but they are quick drying. I use an ample amount on my eyeglasses and they were spotless (and streakless), and dry within seconds."

Beneleaf believes in the quality of their products. As such, their lens wipes and new travel pouch come with a full 60 day money back guarantee. This allows for a risk-free purchase.
