July 27, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Passionate Care LLC in Valencia, CA announces its solution to the scars left by the new Artificial Cervical Disc Replacement surgeries.

Raul Meza of Passionate Care states, "People are finding fast relief with the FDA approved Artificial Cervical Disc Replacement surgery. Patients are raving about its fast results and the relief of the pain that was once caused by cervical disc nerve compression. What they are complaining of however is the nasty and obvious scar that is left on their neck after surgery.?"

Artificial Cervical Disc Replacement (ACDR) is a new procedure that is finding quick favor over the Anterior Cervical Disc Fusion (ACDF). For the last 50 years surgeons have considered ACDF as the gold standard surgery for cervical nerve compression. ACDR was recently approved by the FDA back in 2007 and orthopedic surgeons as well as spine specialist quickly took to the surgery because it addressed the mobility problem that was often left after a fusion.

"It's easy to see why people are flocking to this surgery for cervical compressed nerve pain relief,?" states Meza. "Though the scar left by the surgery can be large and ugly it seems to be a small price to pay in exchange for getting your life back from the limitations that were brought on by the pain. I mean who wouldn't want to be pain free? The good news is that we now have a scar removal gel with special blend that will specifically help fade that scar."

Golem, a physical therapist who recently had the surgery states, "For me the pain relief was instant. I kept waiting thinking it was just the anesthesia from the surgery that was keeping the pain at bay. But nope; the pain never came back. People keep asking me about the scar though. They ask if someone cut my throat with a knife and I say, "Yes, my surgeon."

Passionate Care's scar removal product is designed to remove scars caused by ACDR, general surgery, burns, self-harm, acne, and other incidents over time. The gel contains a number of ingredients that work together to heal skin and slowly fade scars. They claim that significant results should be seen within about eight weeks if the product is used regularly, twice daily. The gel contains the same ingredients found in many products used by plastic surgeons, but at a much lower cost than skin grafting or other means of scar removal.

It is designed to work on new scars, as well as those that have been evident for years. Those looking to learn more about this new gel can visit Passionate Care online.
