Dr. Joe Sciabarrassi, a holistic doctor in Los Angeles, California, has announced that bioidentical hormones replacement therapy is available to all Los Angeles patients. This is also known as natural hormone therapy and it is different from the conventional hormone replacement therapy (HRT) in that bioidentical hormones are used. While the hormones used in traditional HRT are made from the urine of pregnant horses and other synthetic hormones, the bioidentical hormones are identical chemically to the hormones produced by the human body and are made from plant estrogens.

Dr. Joe Sciabarrassi says, ?For women struggling with loss of vitality, sleep disruption, hair thinning, emotional reactivity and sensitivity, loss of libido, getting up at night to use the bathroom, night sweats, day sweats, hot flashes, dry and painful intercourse, tired all the time, negative outlook, bone loss, aging skin and increasing weight that doesn?t respond to diet and exercise, bioidentical hormone replacement therapy (BHRT) will almost certainly help you!?

Dr. Sciabarrassi continues, ?And for men experiencing weight gain along with loss of assertiveness, motivation, physical stamina and the loss of erections, BHRT can be a profound renewal of your life! BHRT may also lower your risk of prostate cancer and heart disease according to the Harvard Medical School reviews.?

The holistic doctor explains that ?bioidentical hormones? means hormones that are exactly the same in every way to the hormones produced by the body. BHRT is the art and science of adding these hormones back into the body to help protect people from the diseases of aging.

Meanwhile, Dr. Sciabarrassi also provides natural remedies for various conditions, such as sleep disturbances, including difficulty in falling and staying asleep; low energy and stamina; anxiety and depression; addiction recovery; loss of sexual vitality and response; allergies; heavy metal mercury or ?silver? fillings testing and chelation; cancer support therapies; and recurring infections such as colds, flu, and bronchitis.

The holistic doctor also offers state of the art testing and treatment methods, including Chinese medical acupuncture and pain relief; intravenous vitamin, mineral and chelation therapies; adrenal fatigue and neurotransmitter analysis; and comprehensive digestive, nutritional and food allergy testing.

Meanwhile, patients who have tried the treatments offered by Dr. Sciabarrassi have provided positive reviews on the doctor?s website. One such patient said, ?Dr Joseph Sciabarassi is a thoughtful, caring, open, and knowledgeable doctor who very quickly helped change my health for the better. His staff is equally as caring and attentive and for anyone who wants a whole body and spirit approach to treating Lyme and many other diseases I highly recommend going to see him!?

Joe Sciabarrassi, MD, is focused on holistic and integrative medicine. This does not mean that he is not knowledgeable on conventional medicine. It was from Georgetown University that he obtained a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology with a minor in Theology. He then completed a Master?s degree in Microbiology from George Washington University. He later finished his medical degree at the George Washington University. Next, he completed his internship at the New York Hospital. Later, he served in the military for four years and that was where he started his practice of Emergency Medicine.

Meanwhile, his training in traditional and alternative medicine came from such experts in the field like Dr. Milton Erikson, Dr. Anita Cignolini, Dr. Jean Houston, Dr. Rosalyn Bruyere, and the Hahnemann College of Homeopathy. He has also studied indigenous healing practices in different countries.
