Dallas, TX ? 1-800 Truck Wreck has shed light on truck wrecks that are currently on the rise in the U.S. Recent statistics indicate commercial truck crashes are surging throughout the country with 400,000 crashes occurring annually. Approximately 130,000 injuries are caused by truck trailer accidents each year. Although the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has made recommendations supporting crash avoidance and mitigation systems that are installed on commercial trucks in recent decades, the agency has failed to enforce additional regulations to reduce the risk of collisions on highways.

Truck collisions contribute to deaths among other motorists due to the weight of the commercial trucks, which are 25 times larger than the average car and puts the public at a high risk. Statistics show that fatal truck crashes are on the rise at a fast rate and are even higher than deadly automobile accidents. Some experts suggest that performing routine maintenance on trucks and taking responsibility for accidents can allow for fewer accidents to occur. Moving forward with safety mandated recommendations in the trucking industry can also prove to be beneficial.

Legal professionals recommend that victims of truck wrecks act quickly by obtaining a consultation from a lawyer because there's a statute of limitations for gaining full financial recovery. Filing a claim with the help of a lawyer can allow the victim to obtain compensation for medical expenses and damages incurred. There may be evidence that needs to be examined by an attorney that warrants professional analysis.
