July 21, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Eclectic Communications, a translation and interpretation services company based in San Francisco, California, has just released an ebook about the biography of The Rolling Stones translated in Croatian language. This can be found at <http://www.swlocalization.com/mick-jagger-biografija/>.

For over a quarter of a century, Eclectic Communications maintains its high standing in Translation services, Software localization, Website Translation, Interpreting and Transcription services as well as Branding research. Among its many clients are big companies such as GE, CoorsTek, Oracle, First Advantage, Hewlett Packard and a whole lot more. With a large network of professional interpreters and translators, together with the use of latest technology, Eclectic Communications is able to help these businesses overcome any cultural and language barriers.

Meanwhile, as part of their continuous commitment in providing high quality translation services to businesses around the world, Eclectic Communications translated the biography of the front man of The Rolling Stones, Mick Jagger, in the Croatian language as a treat to the fans of the band. The ebook was released after yet another successful US tour by The Rolling Stones.

Marina Kimak, a representative of the company said, "Our customers are the lifeblood of this company. Without them, we are also nothing. Thus, we always try to innovate and revolutionize everything that we think would benefit our customers. We are continuously doing our best to provide excellent translation services and we want our clients to feel that we are serious in everything we do. Every week, we think of different fun ways to connect with our clients and other people in terms of creativity and quality. Hence, we decided to embark on this exciting project of translating the biography of the legend Mick Jagger in Croatian. I'm sure it's not only me who's excited, but also the Croat fans."

Eclectic Communications also believes in empowering communication. At present, it translates almost every language in the world including Western European, Eastern European, Scandinavian, South American, Asian and other languages. It likewise specializes in the following niches such as: Computer Technology, Law and Administration, Medicine, Science, Finance, Aviation, Microbiology and Renewable Energy.
