Calabasas, Los Angeles based David Shield Security (DSS) offers its clients the highest level of executive protection based on key personnel training and work with the Israeli Secret Service worldwide. The company primarily works with dignitaries, celebrities, and high net worth individuals. Executive protection is a service offered to high net-worth individuals and individuals who spend significant time in the public eye. This service provides a team of agents who can address daily risks or provide protection for a single event, such as international protection and crisis management.

As noted on the company's website, DSS is a full-service and investigation firm founded by former Israeli Secret Service agents, with a combined experience of over 60 years in counter-terrorism, counter-espionage, executive protection, and private security. "Our services are highly flexible and can be designed to adjust to specific client requirements. Our knowledge, vast experience, and current performance position DSS as a leader in the industry, and our agents are among the world's best in the field of security," says Snir Warshaviak from David Shield Security.

DSS offers an array of services that include physical, financial, environmental, and technological protection.

Warshaviak explains that the company offers domestic and international travel security services to protect their clients in unfamiliar destinations and situations. "We also provide protective surveillance services that are ideal for people who want to maintain a low profile while still being protected at home, work, and on the road. Since close surveillance can produce a mob-like effect, our agents know how to maintain a respectful distance that ensures they would be available and ready in the event of a threat. This is a common strategy, used by many high-value individuals who take advantage of executive protection services," asserts Warshaviak.

Meanwhile, he also states that the company's agents are highly trained in times of crisis because they understand that unexpected disasters are particularly hazardous for individuals who require personal security. Warshaviak points out that their teams are available at a moment's notice and are equipped to provide immediate plans and solutions to safely evacuate clients in crisis situations. The security company specializes in providing executive protection for high profile CEOs, politicians, media celebrities, businessmen, and more.

DSS also provides executive protection services that cover special events and meetings. The company states that high profile gatherings can present safety risks for VIPs and high-valued guests so it is imperative to have a security team that is experienced in emergency evacuations, crowd control, surveillance, counter-surveillance, as well as situation assessment. DSS explains that executive protection is well-suited for events such as concerts, festivals, fundraisers, and other gatherings that draw high media interest.

In addition, Warshaviak affirms that the DSS founders were fully trained individuals who were tasked with providing intelligence for counter-terrorism operations, counter-espionage, and personal protection of senior public officials such as prime ministers, presidents, and foreign dignitaries. In fact, some of their high profile clients include embassy ambassadors from Asia, South America, Europe, and the United States. He says that, "Our mission is to protect our client's privacy and intellectual property at the highest level of confidentiality. We are committed to ensuring the safety, reputation, and well-being of our clients, their families, business, and brands. Our personal dedication and attention to detail also enable us to conduct day to day activity worldwide with little to no interruptions to our clients."

DSS is considered one of the top executive security service providers in Los Angeles and the surrounding areas. The company has received a number of positive reviews and recommendations from many of their previous clients.

David Wollman, in a Google review, said, "David Shield Security is one of the best security companies I've ever worked with. Not only are their security personnel extremely well trained, but they are also incredibly professional and highly competent. Their team of agents is definitely capable of providing comprehensive security for executives, A-list stars, and other VIPs."
