July 21, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

New World Investigations, a private investigator located in Huntington Beach, CA, is happy to announce that they have expanded their services so that they are now able to help people throughout California. The company has expanded their service area to include Los Angeles, Orange County, San Diego and San Francisco.

That also means new office locations in Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco, to go along with their home office in Orange County. These new locations will allow New World Investigations to effectively have a home base in each part of California.

"We have always been committed to offering clients a local, affordable service that they can trust," says New World Investigations owner Terrence Green. "As our company has grown over the past 28 years, we felt it was time to expand our services to cover a larger geographical area and ensure others will be able to utilize our expertise as well." The business offers both private investigation services and insurance consultancy. Some of their most popular services include infidelity and cheating spouse surveillance, asset searches, background checks, locates missing persons, witness statements, witness canvassing, sign ups, claims consulting, scene inspections and court searches. The company has been operating for 28 years and they have built a solid reputation in that time.

Finding a local, licensed private investigator that is both trustworthy and affordable can be extremely difficult. New World Investigations employs private investigators across California in an effort to change that. All of their investigators are highly experienced, having worked either in law enforcement or in legal businesses.

"The commitment to our clients is that we promise to use every available resource and our best effort to obtain results," adds Terrence Green. "We don't quit when things get tough."
