July 14, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Elmhurst, IL Koehlinger Plumbing manager Jimmy Ellis says, "Elmhurst residence and business owners can now protect their homes from sewage backups with the latest flood control prevention systems. We are very proud to be an installer of Clean Check from Rector Seal." Rector Seal provides the highest quality flood control systems. These control valves feature a revolutionary extendable backwater valve that eliminates the need for costly and unsightly manholes regardless of burial depth. These sewage systems comply with the major regulatory standards, including IAPMO/UPC, ICC & CSA.

With a Flood Control System from Koehlinger Plumbing, you can prevent sewage backup into your home or building from a plugged sewer system. This special technology uses a valve flapper which seals the system while blocking reverse flow from coming into your home or office. These unique systems work very well under pressure while eliminating the need from manholes and providing property owners peace of mind from sewage backup in their homes or offices.

Over the years, Elmhurst residents have been affected by numerous floods. The fact is, that many homeowners could have avoided these disastrous floods by having the proper flood control system in place. Since no one knows when the next flood is coming, installing a flood control device now can help prevent flooding in your home and provide added comfort during the next storm.

To find out which flood control system is right for you, contact Koehlinger Plumbing at (630) 230-1430 or visit www.KoehlingerPlumbing.com.
