Mr. Chem-Dry, a trusted carpet cleaning company headquartered in Centerville, has announced that they are now offering furniture cleaning Ogden Utah residents can rely on, and just in time for spring cleaning.

Daryl Olsen, a representative for the company says, "We have an amazing system that will clean and refresh upholstered furniture. We can remove not only surface dirt and grime but also the allergens that typically lead to allergies and other health issues."

Olsen says that the company's system uses carbonation to clean. They have been successfully using this cleaning system on carpets for many years and have a number of satisfied customers. Carbonated cleaning means no harmful chemicals or other agents that could cause breathing problems for residents and their pets.

"Particularly during spring cleaning season," says Olsen, "We get a lot of appointments for cleaning carpets and furniture. People want to remove the dullness of the winter months and refresh their homes completely. We always recommend for anyone who is attempting to freshen up their homes for spring that they clean not only their carpets but any upholstered furniture, as well.?

Olsen says that do it yourself cleaning is often not adequate as it cannot remove the deep down allergens that can embed themselves into furniture. He says that furniture cleaning is recommended at least once per year, particularly for homes that have children or for those who suffer from seasonal allergies. Homes with pets that may shed should also consider furniture deep cleaning on an annual basis, or more often depending on each unique situation.

Olsen adds that the company does not use any chemicals or soaps and that their carbonated cleaning system does all of the work that these harmful agents can do, in a safer and more effective way. Furniture dries much more quickly with this cleaning system than with steam cleaners or chemical cleaning, and it is a green-certified, eco-friendly cleaning system that is deemed to be safe for children and pets.

Olsen states that the company goes above the normal cleaning by removing any chemicals that were likely left by other cleaning solutions, as well as removing dirt and grime. This results in a much cleaner, new looking piece of furniture that is healthier for families and pets.

Mr. Chem-Dry also cleans carpets with the same safe cleaning system, and carpets also dry much more quickly than with other cleaning systems. Olsen states that anyone in the Ogden area who is ready to refresh their home or office for spring can contact the company to schedule a cleaning of their carpets, furniture, and rugs. He adds that they also clean and restore countertops and tile, removing any buildup of dirt or chemicals and leaving the entire home looking fresh and new again.

The company states that they strive to provide the best in green cleaning. With their proprietary cleaning system, they can assure home and business owners that they will be left with a clean and safe environment for families, pets and workers. The cleaning system has been certified to be non-toxic and non-harmful to living creatures, which is why Olsen says that their customers prefer them over other cleaning companies.

He adds that the system also uses less water, which results in the shorter drying time. The company's cleaning system results in the elimination of around 98 percent of allergens that may have found a home in carpet or furniture, as well as nearly 90 percent of allergens and bacteria that may be airborne in the home or business.

Olsen says that the company is now taking appointments from those in the Ogden area and that any home or business that wants a deep cleaning in time for the upcoming summer months can contact them to schedule an appointment. The company's website offers more information about their cleaning system, as well as a contact form and direct contact information for those who wish to make their appointment via telephone or email.
