Honolulu Plastic Surgery Center, a cosmetic surgery clinic in Honolulu, Hawaii, has announced that they are using the most up-to-date techniques in their mommy makeover surgery procedures. Dr. Randy Wong, the plastic surgeon at the clinic, wants to point out to mommies that getting their old body back may not be achievable even with a proper diet and exercise. Thus, the mommy makeover procedures that the plastic surgeon offers are vital for mommies who want to get back their self-confidence.

Dr. Randy Wong says, "The main area of concern in a mother is the belly area. Even if the fat can be burned, the skin never seems to return to its original state. Stretch marks can also be a huge problem in this area. We provide the best tummy tucks in Honolulu. The flap of skin and fat in this area can be removed and the skin pulled down to create a smooth abdominal area. This will allow you to wear a bikini again and walk on the beach with confidence."

The mommy makeover Honolulu services offered by Dr. Wong may also include liposuction, in addition to the tummy tuck. Liposuction is useful when the trouble areas where fat deposits accumulate cannot be removed by diet and exercise alone. This procedure will not just get rid of the fat, but it also prevents it from returning to that particular area. The new contours that are produced will bring back the confidence that mommies used to have and allow them to take part in activities that they were reluctant to participate in before the weight loss.

Still another possible component of the mommy makeover is breast augmentation. The quick inflation of the breast tissue to accommodate the milk that is needed for nursing soon becomes a deflation, resulting in a skin that is left behind that is loose and saggy. In some cases, the fat tissue swells in various locations, resulting in lumpy and uneven breasts. All of that can be corrected at the Honolulu Plastic Surgery Center. Dr. Wong is capable of resizing and reshaping the breast tissue in a minimally invasive procedure that results in aesthetically pleasing breasts.

There are other services provided by the cosmetic surgery clinic in Honolulu. These include facial rejuvenation, fat injections, blepharoplasty, and Advanced SkinCeuticals treatments. Facial rejuvenation procedures are minimally invasive and have very little downtime required for recovery. Facial rejuvenation can help in reducing wrinkles by introducing fillers. Hyperpigmentation can also be remedied by the facial rejuvenation procedure. The light brown patches that result from sun exposure can be eliminated through laser resurfacing. In this process, a laser restores the pigmentation in the skin, which in turn eliminates the spots on the skin.

Dr. Wong offers fat injections as a way to fill in certain areas with the goal of eliminating wrinkles. Also, the fat can be obtained from trouble areas in the body like the hips or stomach and then placed wherever the fat fillers are needed, thus killing two birds with one stone. These fat injections can also be used to enlarge the breasts so that the use of breast implants is avoided.

Dr. Wong is one of the top plastic surgeons in Honolulu. In fact, he has been ranked as one of the best doctors in Honolulu, particularly in hand surgery and plastic surgery. His training was provided by some of the best plastic surgeons in the world. And what makes him stand out from the rest of the crowd is that he integrates the breathing techniques he learned from Aikido. With these breathing techniques, he is able to prevent any tremors or shaking while he is performing microsurgery. Because of the steadiness of his hands he has been elected Director of Microsurgery and Replantation Services at the Hershey Medical Center in Pennsylvania State University Hospital.

Mommies who are interested in the mommy makeover procedures provided by Dr. Wong or who want to schedule a consultation can visit the clinic's website at <http://honoluluplasticsurgerycenter.com/>, call them by phone, or contact them by email.
