May 23, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Leading online metal retailer Aluminium Warehouse is all set for the summer, with small or bulk orders of its products available, and more than 2,000 items in stock.

Company spokesperson Ross Goodwin said: "We like to think of ourselves as your go-to online metal website. After all, we've been in business for more than four decades, supplying sheet, plate and extrusion products.

"We aim to give people precisely what they need, and our metal warehouse has a huge range of standard-sized alloys in stock, in all of the most widely recognised grades in the industry. Products marked with a saw on our website can be custom cut to size."

At the same time, Aluminium Warehouse offers metal sheets cut to size, and a variety of mild steel items.

The spokesperson added: "We also like to think we can assist people whether they are looking for help with a modest DIY project, or something a lot bigger and more complicated. We're well accustomed to dealing with both small and bulk orders. What's more, our customers find our prices extremely competitive.

Our website is also very well equipped to handle online orders, as we know that's how customers like to shop with us these days. As online retail specialists, we're able to take orders 24 hours a day, whether from a PC or any kind of mobile device. What's more, we'll also gladly help when people need items in a hurry.

The online retail firm invests in its business continually, and recently expanded its metal products range, meaning that there are now some 2,000 different items on offer this summer.

This range includes copper, brass and mild steel products as well as metric-sized aluminium extrusions.

Among the selling points of Aluminium Warehouse is its flexibility in terms of delivery date, secure payments and a robust 28-day returns policy.

Among the aluminium products on offer are all manner of tubing and bars in different shapes and sizes. There's also a good line-up of stainless steel sheeting, and mild steel angles as well as flat bars.

Copper sheeting and flat bars also come in various sizes, while brass products again include sheeting, alongside a good line-up of hexagonal bars.
