St. Regis Labs in Las Vegas, NV has recently reported an increase in sales of their biotin hair product. The company's five star reviews are also increasing.

Ron Rose of St. Regis Labs recently stated, "Reviewers tell us they experience fuller, less brittle hair and that hair loss has been reduced. We're thrilled that sales are up of course, but mostly we're thrilled that people are really being helped by this product." Interest for Healthy Hair Essentials has been high among those wanting a better appearance for their hair. The biotin based product provides lush results, turning even the most brittle hair healthy. In light of the increase in sales and five star reviews, the company is offering free shipping, with Amazon Prime membership, subject to change at any time. They are also offering the product at half price.

"We really want to thank our customers for their outstanding reviews," states Rose. "Because of those reviews, this product is literally flying off the shelves, and we want to show our appreciation. We're offering this sale, and the free shipping, for a limited time to hopefully get more customers who want to really change their lives by changing their hair."

"I'm sold," says Marjorie L. of Wisconsin. "I've been battling thinning hair for the better part of five years. I've been using Healthy Hair Essentials for just a few weeks and not only can I see a difference, everyone I know can see a difference."

Biotin has been studied of late for its benefits to the skin, nails, and hair. Many beauty professionals recommend biotin to those who have thinning hair, or who generally just want their hair to grow longer, faster. The nutrient is especially beneficial to the older generation, as it helps to alleviate the brittle hair that those over the age of 50 generally experience.

St. Regis Labs provides products that help consumers to look and feel better, including a wide selection of nutrient packed supplements. This newest product, which is gaining in positive reviews by the day, is designed specifically for those who want healthier, thicker hair.
