In her 5-Star review, Amanda Saenz says, "I have been going to InStyle Dental for 10 years, and there is no office that is more professional, friendly, and personable. Dr. Kar and his staff are extremely knowledgeable and trustworthy. All of my dental work has been top notch! I drive all the way from Burbank for all of my dental needs because this office is a rare find."

The clinic recently celebrated their 7th Year Anniversary in San Gabriel, recommitting themselves to providing genuine customer care to all their patients. InStyle Dental's pediatric dentistry also welcomes children aged one and over, providing a fun and gentle environment for kids complete with pillows and blankets for relaxation and a variety of entertainment. Any parent or caregiver looking to get their children off on the right foot (or the right tooth) and eliminate the fear of dentists, which is often passed on from parent to child, will appreciate the attention and care their little ones receive. To that aim, InStyle Dental is focused on cultivating patient education, ensuring every patient, young and old alike, understand the "why" behind their care. Even the youngest patient is treated with professionalism and clear, easy-to-understand instructions so they can develop great oral hygiene habits and gain the confidence to ask questions if they have concerns. "Parents are often surprised to learn that their fears of the dentist transfer to their kid?over 75% of American adults say going to the dentists causes fear. We have created an environment which parents and children can trust to get them off to the best start to perfect smiles to last a lifetime," asserted Rodriguez.

Digital Journal recently featured an article about the dental office's own Dr. KeunHee Chrissy Park, known as Dr. Chrissy to her patients, who specializes in providing dental care to infants, young children, and special needs patients. Her reputation for making the entire experience of going to the dentist a positive and fun one for children is legendary among her young patients.

With 42% of Americans saying they don't see a dentist as often as they would like, even though more than 80% believe that oral health is very or extremely important to their overall health, it is clear that many just have not yet found a dentist which they can look forward to returning to again. "We understand that every patient has unique needs and desires, so we design custom treatments, paying attention to every detail because we care about their overall health and well-being," said Rodriguez.
