May 31, 2019 -

Towson, MD - Towson Roofing Pros has announced that they are now accepting roofing jobs in Towson, Maryland and neighboring areas. The company is well-experienced in both flat and pitched roofs. In addition, they also provide new gutter and skylight services and they are also capable of handling complete exterior remodeling of a home. More information about their services can be gleaned from their website at https://towsonroofingpros.business.site/.

A spokesperson for Towson Roofing Pros says, ?We?re very excited to be able to offer roofing services to homes and other properties in Towson and nearby areas. Once you give us a call we will provide you an over-the-phone estimate using satellite imaging. This imaging provides us the size of the roof so that we can price out materials and labor instantaneously. If the price works for your budget, then you will simply pick a color and style and we will get you on our schedule for the next available installation date. More often than not we conduct the same week or next week installations.?

One of the roofing services offered is architectural and three tab asphalt shingle roofing. They provide a wide range of shingle options. They also offer traditional wood shingles of red cedar. This is a tough building material that has the advantage of looking natural and is resistant to mold, decay, and insect damage. This kind of roofing is commonly found in historic districts/neighborhoods. For this kind of roof, cedar shingles are cut and tapered and laid flat in rows.

A variation of the wood shingles roofing is the use of shake shingles, which have a slightly irregular rustic look. Such roofing is more costly than asphalt roofing but it is preferred by homeowners who want a more premium look. Those who would like to visit the Towson Roofing Pros offices can visit their Google Maps page. They are open 24 hours a day, everyday of the week.

Towson Roofing Pros also offers torch down flat roofing. Torch down is an affordable way to perform weather sealing of a flat roof. If properly installed, these roofs can last for several years before a new layer will need to be applied. The roofing experts at Towson Roofing Pros have years of experience in installing torch down flat roofing and thus are able to guarantee quality roofing.

The roofing company also offers rubber roofs, which are more costly than torch down roofs but will last longer. Rubber roofs make use of a thicker material that is similar to that used in car tires. This material is better able to withstand extended sun and rain exposure.

Meanwhile, they can also provide skylight installation, whether the roof is flat or angled. The roofing experts will inspect the home and determine the best size and the best way to position the skylight in the home to allow natural sunlight into the home.

And because storms with heavy rain, strong winds and flooding can damage roofs, the roofing experts at Towson Roofing Pros are always ready to respond to calls for emergency roof repair. Knowing that time is of the essence after a storm, they will act efficiently and quickly to repair the roof and get the home or business back to normal. They are also ready to work with the insurance company of the homeowner or business owner to make sure that the home is properly covered when making a claim.
