Dr. Steven Schram, a renowned Chiropractor in the New York, NY area, has received yet another 5-star review from a recent patient. This marks nearly 30 total reviews that the local specialist has received, showing an amazing overall review rating of 5/5 Stars on Google's platform. In the most recent review, the practice was praised for its attention to detail and winning customer service.

The review was written by John D., who wrote, "Dr. Schram is the best chiropractor New York NY has available. For the past five years, I have been dealing with a constant, and unbearable, back and shoulder pain. Sometimes the pain would be so bad that I couldn't even think properly, and all I could focus on was trying to get rid of the pain. I had been on and off of medication throughout the years but, while it eased the pain, it was only temporary. I had already tried five local chiropractors and I even flew to Texas seeking relief to my ailments, to no success. I was at my wit's end, I couldn't keep dealing with what was going on with my body. Steven is something new. I'd known that my pain was more than just pain, I had a feeling I needed something more than just a cracking, and Dr. Schram provided it. The treatment that he used with me was something that no other doctor had even thought of, let alone tried. Within the first few sessions, I saw an immediate improvement in my condition, and I knew I had finally found the right chiropractor.?

Dr. Schram states that these cases are a common occurrence among his patients. They often go to him in despair, after having visited some of the other chiropractors New York NY has to offer without any sign of progress. "I have spent the past 25 years helping patients experiencing back, neck, and shoulder pain. Not many chiropractors in the area have this expertise, which is why many are able to find relief when they come to me. I have seen uncountable patients, and have treated many kinds of injuries. I am familiar with and utilize many chiropractic adjustments and other manual therapies to heal and to help patients achieve the best spinal health they possibly can. When someone comes to me for aid, they can be sure that they will find comfort and see an immediate improvement,? says Dr. Schram.

His first priority is to help patients address back and neck pain, migraines, and other chronic discomforts in order to help them achieve a fuller life devoid of debilitating pain. The personalized treatment that he offers is one of his most acclaimed traits, as many patients have stated that he takes the time to learn each patient?s individual needs so as to better address every area of concern.

The doctor?s most renowned service is his chiropractic adjustment New York NY for back pain. This is a common ailment that affects numerous individuals, and one that Dr. Schram deals with on a regular basis. He employs various techniques and disciplines to treat such chronic pain, including both chiropractic adjustment and acupuncture. In this manner, he is able to quickly identify issues and pursue positive results that a patient can see almost immediately.

Lower back pain is yet another condition that Dr. Schram is familiar, and well equipped, to treat. Since the lower back is responsible for supporting a large percentage of the body?s weight,it undergoes a lot of stress and tension. Due to this, the NY chiropractor considers it of paramount importance to correct back pain in all his patients. Dr. Schram also treats neck pain, migraine relief, allergies, and joint pain. Patients that see the doctor for these ailments can expect to be treated with the expertise and knowledgeability of a professional with more than two decades of experience.
