Residential cleaning is the primary source of income for Superior Carpet Cleaners owners, but the brand's owners have expanded and now have the equipment, technology, and support to extend their services to include cleaning commercial flooring.

According to Superior Carpet Cleaners, a company devoted to continual analysis of the real estate market, there are 40 square feet of office space per capita in the United States, as well as 56 square feet of retail space per person across the country, and hotel space is so large that Superior Carpet Cleaners cannot determine just how much of it exists. With so much office, retail and hotel space, all of which needs to be cleaned on a regular basis, Superior Carpet Cleaners owners are primed for long-term success by tapping into these markets.

An independent air quality study found that Superior Carpet Cleaners carpet cleaning process removes an average of 98.1% of allergens from carpet and upholstery, and when sanitizer is included, 89% of airborne bacteria.

Superior Carpet Cleaners stated, "As owners, we are really taking advantage of the commercial cleaning opportunities. Right now, 20 percent of profits comes from cleaning commercial flooring, but we would like to see it bring in 80% of profits from cleaning commercial flooring. We are starting to use state of the art equipment to clean hotel, retail, hospital, and office spaces."

Superior Carpet Cleaners stated, "For high-traffic retail spaces, the cleanliness of floors and carpets is vital for keeping customers coming back. For medical spaces, ensuring that carpets and flooring are germ-free is vital to patients' well-being." Superior Carpet Cleaners methods are proven to reduce allergens by 98% and germs by nearly as much when sanitizers are used, according to a recent study of our hot carbonating extraction process -- that is a key selling point for retail and health care customers.

Superior Carpet Cleaners has over 20 years of industry experience and as such, is more capable of handling all sorts of carpet cleaning tasks. For more information, visit their website now at <http://www.carpetcleanerslv.com/>.
