A digital video agency based in Belmont, California is in beta launch and they are producing review video commercials. Offline Marketing Genius LLC, the company behind this ingenuity, is providing 60-second review video commercials and they are picking up all the production costs. They also scour the Internet in search of 5 star review testimonials of businesses. Their skilled team of professionals undertakes to make compelling videos that will give any business the attention it deserves.

In every review video commercial, one is expected to see 100% original and unique videos that are hosted by professional commercial actors in a Hollywood inspired setting. High quality graphics and animation are also used to make the review video commercial appealing.

When a business decides to sign up at <http://evidoreviews.com/>, the production process begins and the Offline Marketing Genius company will cover all the production costs including hiring a professional spokes model, videographer, makeup artist and video editor to name a few. The only information they need to get from a company are its name, phone number, main brand and company logos, photo of the store or lobby, website URL and the 5-star review that it wishes to promote.

As an option, once a commercial video is made for a company, The Offline Marketing Genius team will set up and optimize the former's YouTube channel to ensure that the brand and video are well optimized to get massive traffic to the video commercial. Aside from this video-sharing website, they will also create accounts in other popular sites such as Vimeo and Daily Motion.

All video commercials made are specifically designed to spread and highlight the 5-star reviews received by local businesses from their customers. The concept behind this is to help businesses increase online traffic, be SEO friendly and attract more customers.

When asked about their inspiration in coming up with this marketing strategy, Marcus Acosta, spokesperson of Offline Marketing Genius LLC said, "We want to change the trend when it comes to marketing that's why we've decided to come up with something different. We want our customers to know that there is a better way of getting noticed in their chosen niche, and that is through review video commercials."

The beta launch will be available for a limited time.
