June 18, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

David Shield Security (DSS) is pleased to announce that they now offer armored vehicle security services. Using state-of-the-art technology and bullet-proof glass, David Shield Security helps their clients make the transportation they rely on more secure than previously thought possible. The company, through their careful, customized engineering, works to ensure the complete protection of their clients.

Each vehicle features all-over bulletproof glass passenger windows, armored glass windshields framed with steel plates, and reinforced, steel-plated doors. The protection offered by David Shield Security is compliant with European Standard B6 and NATO AEP-55 STANAG 4569. "Armored vehicles are a critical component of executive protection services," says David Shield Security. "They provide risk management for our clients, no matter what threats you may face. In more hazardous environments, the roof and floor of each armored car can control the center of gravity of the vehicle and absorb mild blasts. On the other hand, when discretion is your priority, our battery and fuel tanks are also armored with an upgraded suspension system for increased protection without changing the vehicle's appearance."

David Shield Security is a full service security and investigation firm founded by former Israeli Secret Service agents with over 60 years of combined experience in counter terrorism, counter espionage, executive protection, and the private security sector. The company prides itself on providing highly flexible, customizable security services that can be adjusted to meet each individual client's unique requirements. The company's knowledge, experience, and performance have made it one of the top security providers in the industry and its agents the most reliable in the security business.

The founders of the company trained under the Protective Security Department of the Israeli Government and were put to work providing intelligence for counter-terrorism operations, counter-espionage, and personal protection of senior public officials like presidents and foreign dignitaries. The founders also worked overseas, securing important infrastructure and safeguarding El Al Israel Airlines. They are both certified Israeli Air Marshals, and carried out a number of security missions all around the world. David Shield Security's founders have, in the past, worked with a number of law enforcement agencies, including SWAT, Special Response Team, the Navy, and the US Military Special Forces.

At DSS, the founders practice the same secrecy and low profile security methods as they once did for the Israeli government, the company states. Our clients know that we protect their privacy and intellectual property at the highest level of confidentiality possible. DSS' commitment to the safety and wellbeing of our clients, their families, businesses, and brands is second to none. Our personal dedication and attention to detail provides us with the ability to conduct day to day activities worldwide with little to no interruptions to our clients.

Their services are not only limited to governments and ambassadors, however. CEOs of companies, as high profile, wealthy individuals may find themselves the target of those that might seek to cause them harm. Hiring a private security company like David Shield Security can help secure the CEO, their family, and their possessions. As an article on security practices for high-profile CEOs from the Baltimore Post Examiner states, Enlisting a protective services agency for the executive protection of high-valued corporate leaders is something corporations should take seriously. Threats arising from public disapproval, disgruntled employees, or other motives, are often directed towards a corporation's primary team members. David Shield Security has years of experience and the right tools to keep these threats at bay.

Over the years, DSS has managed to build a positive reputation for itself with a number of pleased clients leaving great reviews online. One review by one of these clients states, Snir and Eitan are consummate professionals. They have a deep rooted background in Israeli intelligence. You will be safe in their hands.

For a top class private security firm with a strong commitment to ensuring the safety of its clients, contact David Shield Security. The company is based in Beverly Hills and would be pleased to help ensure that high profile individuals, their families, and their possessions remain safe.
