Weight Loss Clinic: Dr. Vadim Surikov, based in New York City, has announced that a very satisfied patient had expressed her satisfaction by giving them a five star review. Josephine Ricca recalled how she met Dr. Surikov and how he is very different from other weight loss doctors NYC residents often go to. She noted that weight loss doctors usually just prescribe some medications. In contrast, she observed that Dr. Surikov spent a lot of time asking her specific questions about her medical history, lifestyle and overall health before specifying a treatment plan.

Josephine Ricca said, "Dr. Surikov is extremely knowledgeable and clearly explains the causes and effects of existing medical conditions you have. From the moment you meet Dr. Surikov you will be absolutely confident that you have made the best possible choice for your health. He is different from other physicians specializing in weight loss who just prescribe medications and send you on your way. I am very grateful to have found him."

Dr. Vadim Surikov noted that it was not really the first time that they have received such a review. He believes that such excellent reviews are simply the result of their efforts to achieve their goal of helping people enjoy the feeling of having lost weight and then keeping it off. He adds that every patient goes through a physical examination before starting with a treatment program to ensure that their health is not negatively affected while following the program.

He points out that he offers a weight loss program that is effective while patients need not suffer from feeling hungry throughout the process. He believes that many diets fail because patients will need to go hungry for certain periods of time. He is not really surprised about the review because many of his patients had given him feedback and have expressed satisfaction about how well the weight loss program had been working for them.

At the weight loss clinic NYC residents can go to, Dr. Vadim Surikov will prescribe medically approved appetite suppressants. However, these suppressants will not be used as an endless quick fix while failing to address the core problem. One such approved drug that Dr. Surikov may prescribe is Adiphex-P (phentermine). This particular drug has been proven to safely and successfully curb appetite when used under the supervision of a weight loss doctor. However, phentermine cannot be used by anyone. Also, it cannot be used at night because it can cause serious sleep loss, which means that it cannot be used for 24-hour hunger control. Thus, Dr. Surikov also provides patients with full nutrition education, counseling every month, and some natural products that can help counter cravings.

Dr. Surikov offers a weight loss service that can fit easily into the lifestyle of the patients, without the use of surgery. It includes the use of a line of natural products from Sensotherapy that can provide appetite control and help patients avoid food cravings, with or without the use of phentermine.

According to Dr. Surikov, there is an important advantage of going to a doctor-supervised weight loss clinic. This is because weight loss physicians are not just focused on helping patients lose weight but also in improving their overall health. Also, they are qualified to offer medical advice to make sure that patients are using a weight loss strategy that does not compromise their health in any way. Furthermore, weight loss doctors can offer more insight as to why specific patients have gained weight, thus making it easier for them to keep those unwanted weight off once they have reached their targeted weights.

Dr. Vadim Surikov is a licensed weight loss doctor who will make use of the latest discoveries in medical science, particularly on cravings, hunger and nutrition to help his patients lose their unwanted pounds. He believes that weight loss requires both behavior modification and science. Thus, he specializes in combining medicine and control of natural cravings.
