June 24, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Towson, MD - Towson Roofing Pros, based in Maryland, is pleased to announce the availability of their services for skylight replacement in Baltimore. The company offers a broad selection of services throughout the Maryland area, specializing in new roof installations, roof replacements, repairs, and roof maintenance.

The roofing specialists say that a skylight can be damaged and begin leaking due to a number of factors, with the lack of maintenance being the most common. Towson Roofing Pros adds that many people do not consider the fact that their skylights need regular maintenance as would other parts of their houses. They say, "A skylight that doesn't receive proper maintenance and cleaning is bound to begin leaking at some point. This may be because their flashing is damaged, corroded, or improperly installed, but regardless, inspection and maintenance at the right time can save homeowners from having to spend large amounts of money on repairs."

They continue, "While having a small leak in your skylight doesn't sound too bad, and you may think you can live with it and postpone it for later, a bigger leak could be being absorbed by your roofing. This will cause greater damage to the structure, turning from a minor issue to a much larger one. These can also go undetected for some time, causing damage both inside and outside the house."

The specialists explain that skylight damage is a common aftermath of a storm, along with roof and window damage. Sometimes, even a strong wind can damage a skylight if it is old and has not received proper care. This is something that many homeowners often overlook after a storm since, usually, all their focus goes towards verifying the integrity of the rest of the house's roofing.

Towson Roofing Pros discussed this topic at greater length in a recent blog post, where they say, "A wind uplift is a serious threat to a roof's integrity. Wind uplift is the net upward force of air on the roofing system when the air pressure below the roof is greater than the air pressure above the roof. This effect creates a vortex of wind where it swirls over the roof edges and may lift the roofing materials and accessories off the roof. High winds may cause roof membranes to separate at the seams and flashings." Learn more here: <https://sites.google.com/site/towsonroofingpros/>.

This can cause damage that is not obvious at first glance, though it is very dangerous and may cause leaks that could eventually necessitate a major roof replacement. The best course of action after a storm, as Towson Roofing Pros notes, is to contact a specialist for a thorough inspection, since only a qualified expert is able to determine the extent of such damage. This is one of the services provided by Towson Roofing Pros, and they affirm that they are always looking for areas where they can help their community.

This commitment has earned the company a distinguished reputation; they proudly showcase a samples of their customer reviews on their website. In a recent review, Tim P. writes, "Towson Roofing Pros were very quick to respond, and they provided an initial estimate very quickly. While this was impressive by itself, what is more amazing to me is the fact that they were able to stay within that initial budget, and completed the job without any trouble. The team that was dispatched to do the repair conducted themselves in a courteous and professional manner, were thorough, meticulous, and even went as far as providing a clear explanation of the work being performed. I would definitely recommend this company to friends and family. "

The areas covered by Towson Roofing Pros' include Baltimore, Carney, Towson, Central Park Heights, Nottingham, and many other surrounding cities where the company has committed itself to deliver an excellent service. Recently, they also celebrated their first customer review on Google.
