Dynamic Heating and Cooling, based in Culpeper, Virginia, recently published a new blog entry where they explain some of the common failures that an AC unit presents when maintenance is needed. The article is titled "Why Is Your AC Blowing Warm Air?" and it can be accessed through the following link: <https://www.dynamiccooling.com/why-is-your-ac-blowing-warm-air/>.

The HVAC specialists explain that the arrival of the summer, and the rise in temperatures that come with it, mark the peak usage of air conditioning units, as everyone relies on them to keep their house space cool and comfortable. However, if the AC unit has not received the proper maintenance required to function correctly, it will hardly make any difference whether it is turned on or not.

While the most advisable thing to do if the AC unit has not received proper maintenance is to contact an HVAC specialist, the company says that there are a couple of solutions that might work if it does not need any repairs.

Dynamic Heating and Cooling states that the most common issue they find is an unadjusted thermostat. Josh

Bersee, a spokesperson of the company, says, "Before committing your time to contact an HVAC specialist and waiting for them to visit and locate the issue, it is worth checking the thermostat and see if it's working properly. You'd be surprised if you knew how many times we have visited a client's house, only to find out their thermostat was set to heat mode. It could've been messed around with by your kids or accidentally knocked, so it's worth just having a look." Learn more here: <https://posts.gle/Zzq9y>.

If the aforementioned does not work, even after resetting the thermostat, there are a couple of other things that could be affecting the AC unit. Often, these problems can be linked to a lack of maintenance and servicing.

There are certain parts of an AC's system that need regular maintenance to work properly, as there are a number of factors that can negatively affect their performance. Usually, the company finds that it is the AC's filter that has accumulated dust to a point where it can no longer allow sufficient airflow into the unit. Additionally, the outside unit can build a lot of debris and dust over time, which can also negatively impact the performance of the unit as a whole. In these cases, the solution is simply to contact an HVAC specialist.

An experienced HVAC specialist will be able to identify and quickly repair any problems in an AC unit, making it work as good as new. Experience and quick service are two traits that Dynamic Heating and Cooling takes great pride in offering, as they have served the Culpepper community and its surrounding areas for a number of years.

"At Dynamic Heating and Cooling, all of our technicians have a wealth of knowledge and experience to repair any HVAC system your home may use. We can fix it in a timely manner too, ensuring you regain the comfort of your home as soon as possible," claims Bersee. He adds that they have a strong dedication to customer service.

This customer-centered business approach, along with their excellent services, has earned Dynamic Heating and Cooling the community's recognition as one of the best HVAC companies in the area. They boast a perfect 5 Star review rating on the Google review platform, where many customers have shared their experience with the company. In light of the highly positive feedback that the company receives, they have recently created a Yelp page as well for new and existing customers alike to comment on.
