Dr. Steven Schram, a leading chiropractor in New York, NY, is delighted to announce that he has received yet another 5-Star review from a delighted patient. John reported that he had been suffering from, ?insane amounts of back and shoulder pain,? which was so bad that at times he could not even think.

John?s review is typical for his patients who have been suffering from debilitating pain. He said in his review, ?I had been on and off of medication throughout the years but, while it eased the pain, it was only temporary.? Many, like John, turn to pharmacological solutions, often trying every pain reliever on the shelves in the hope the pain will pass. Self-medicating to avoid seeking treatment can often compound problems, however, as the body tries to continually adjust and cope.

As John said, ?I couldn't keep dealing with what was going on with my body,? adding that he had been suffering for five years and had tried five local chiropractors?and even flown to Texas seeking treatment. He states that he was literally, ?at his wits end.?

Luckily John found Dr. Schram, who has specialized in the treatment of back pain, lower back pain, neck pain, and migraines for over 25 years. Due to his chiropractors New York NY expertise and experience, he is often able to help patients who have failed to find relief elsewhere. As John said in his review, ?The treatment that he used with me was something that no other doctor had even thought of, let alone tried. Within the first few sessions, I saw an immediate improvement in my condition, and I knew I had finally found the right chiropractor.?

Dr. Schram, who has received over 200 5-Star reviews, values each patient?s feedback. He said, ?No one needs to endure agonizing conditions which rob them of comfort and the quality of life they deserve. My practice focuses on non-invasive and non-pharmaceutical techniques to help my patients, helping them to begin healing by finding the root cause of their ailment.?

Digital Journal, a leading Canadian internet news service, featured the patient review in full for chiropractic treatment New York NY. More and more people whose lives are being disrupted by pain in their back, neck, joints?as well as allergies and repeated headaches?are turning to chiropractors to find relief. Since chiropractors are primary healthcare providers, their treatments are usually covered in most health and wellness insurance offerings. Dr. Schram?s practice participates in the Oxford insurance network, and further advice regarding their policies and treatment options is available on their website.

The practice provides chiropractic services and acupuncture for patients throughout New York City. Most Americans will experience lower back pain or neck pain at some point during their lives, and while it may expect it to only last a short while, it can sometimes last for years as well. More often than not, the root cause of back pain can be far removed from where sufferers experience their pain. ?Not many chiropractors have my expertise, which is why patients seek out my help after failing to find the relief they needed. Having treated countless patients and many types of injuries, I utilize many chiropractic adjustments, other manual therapies, and acupuncture to heal and to help patients. When someone comes to me for aid, they can be sure that they will find comfort and see an immediate improvement,? said Dr. Schram.

Dr. Schram is often able to fit in a last-minute appointment for his patients while simultaneously keeping his fees affordable.
