

The Realty Medics Announces Property Management Discount For First Responders And Military

July 08, 2019

July 08, 2019 -

The Realty Medics, a property management company in Orlando, Florida, has announced that they are offering a discount for first responders and military personnel. This is to show their gratitude to the nation?s men and women in uniform for their service. As such, any active military personnel, a military veteran, active firefighters, or active police will get their first 90 days of monthly property management services for free.

The conditions are that the discount will only apply for direct family who owns the home being managed; the discount is applicable to management agreements signed July 1, 2018 and later; and the incentive is per client and not per property referred. Based on a sample monthly rent of $1,200 and 8 percent management fees, the discount has a value of more than $250.

Ben Sencenbaugh, president of The Realty Medics, says, ?We would like to say thank you to all active duty military and veterans, active police officers and firefighters for your service to our country and your communities. As ?first responders? in property management, we value professionals who go above and beyond the call of duty to serve. To show our respect and appreciation for your truly heroic efforts, we gladly provide all first responder and military personnel with 3 months of free property management services.?
