

Panama City Plumbers Successfully Move Back to Original Office after Hurricane Rebuild

July 03, 2019

Panama City, FL ? Over the course of 2 days in October of last year the Category 5 Hurricane made landfall in the Florida panhandle region. With maximum wind speeds of over 161 miles per hour, almost anything left in its wake suffered extensive damage if not being completely destroyed. The leading plumber in Panama City, Mr. Rooter Plumbing, was no exception.

Within the past year many companies and residents alike have had to come together to rebuild and repair what needed to be reconstructed after the devastating storm in the area. The resiliency and determined mindset of the community has allowed for a few businesses and families to return to business as usual.

As we approach Hurricane season this year, the locally owned and operated business would like residents of the Panama City area to be aware of the different steps to take to prepare when expecting inclement weather incase of emergency.

It is of utmost importance to make sure that residents and business owners knows where the main water valve is located and how to turn it off if needed. Mr. Hobbs also recommends that drains are cleared of any debris, and that the phone numbers of local utilities departments are on hand in case of an emergency.

The leading Panama City plumber is very grateful for the communities involvement and the opportunity to be able to return back to their original office location after a long year of rebuilding.

The business is located at 920 N E Ave, Panama City, FL 32401. Mr. Rooter of Panama City can be contacted by phone at (850) 250-0906 with more information available on their website at www.mrrooter.com/panama-city.
