July 15, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Tik Tok Water Damage Pros, an affordable water damage restoration service provider in Washington DC, has announced that they have expanded their service area throughout the District and all surrounding areas. As an established and highly respected DC water damage restoration company, the local community has welcomed their services with open arms. Full details about the work their services are available at <https://tiktokwaterdamagepros.com/>

"We have been working in small parts of Washington DC for many years," says the owner from Tik Tok Water Damage Pros. "During that time, we have established great relationships with our customers and we know we would not be where we are today without their continuing support. Business is going well, and the demand for water extraction is constantly growing, we are happy to say we are now serving the entire district and parts of Maryland."

Whether a customer needs mold remediation or is simply looking for water damage restoration services in Washington DC, we want them to know we are available 24/7 in case an emergency arises.

Tik Tok Water Damage Pros recently launched a new website and video commercial to highlight all the services they offer.

Their customer service line is always manned and a highly trained water extraction technician is available around the clock to answer anything questions potential customers may have.

Tik Tok Water Damage Pros provides, as stated, 24 hour emergency response service. In addition, they offer water removal, cleanup, and restoration services. Their work has been very positively reviewed by their customers. "We had to call Tik Tok to remove a ton of water from our bedroom after the water bed busted. They came fast and extracted all the water. Very pleased with their work."

Many business and homeowners are typically not aware of the damage a leaking pipe or roof can cause if left unresolved. Failure to properly remove water from a property can lead to severe mold growth and structural damage as well as cause deadly health risks.

Tik Tok strongly advises their customers not to attempt to remove water damage on their own, but instead contact a professional water damage restoration company in DC such as Tik Tok Water Damage Pros. They have the tools, training and technology to remove water and prevent additional damage from occurring.

The company also encourages everybody to learn more about them on YouTube by watching this educational video <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cwBu49fCOhQ>. Feel free to watch, comment and ask any questions that may come up. Be sure to ask about summer specials as well, the company adds.
