Canadian based Instant Cash has recently added several financial services to their portfolio. Operating out of Alberta, the company has been offering financial assistance services as well as cheque cashing facilities to its customers. However, the company has now expanded to provide small business with accounting and finance managing services as well. "Our firm offers a wide range of services to individuals and business clients," states operation manager of Instant Cash. "We can now offer our clients the services of professional accountants as well."

Operating out of two offices in Alberta, the company is now able to provide the additional financial products to small businesses in addition to their traditional individual customers. Instant Cash says, "Each client has different needs and different financial structures. We will work with them to customize the services they require, to benefit from a personalized, quality service that is beyond comparison."

More traditional accounting packages like bookkeeping and financial statement preparation services are also extended to the company's clients. "We more than often go the extra length to meet the needs of our customers," Rosie states. "Prices for our bookkeeping services start from just $150 a month, so we maintain one of the best cost to value ratios in the business."

Their new services have already seen several customers who have taken to reviewing the company online. "The best rates offered in Calgary," one customer declared. "I've shopped around for some accounting services, but none of them were as accommodating as Instant Cash." The company has offered a free initial consultation to its clients to assess their situation and determine their needs.

The company encourages its customers to connect with them on their social media channel, which can be reached by following this link: <https://www.facebook.com/pages/Instant-Cash/197456023744733>.
