

Maryland Demolition Company Strives to be an Environmentally Friendly Demolition Service

July 25, 2019

July 25, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Like most demolition companies, Next Day Demolition is equipped to handle most any demolition, excavation, junk removal, and waste management process from start to finish. What makes them different from other demolition contractors is they want to take this a step further by being an environmentally responsible demolition services provider too. That's why they take steps to ensure that all of the material they dispose of is done in a way that causes the least harm to the environment. Next Day Demolition also pledges to recycle as much material as possible from every demolition job they do.

S. Gordon, a spokesperson for Next Day Demolition, had this to say as to why they want to act in an environmentally responsible way when doing any type of demolition work. Gordon said, "We strongly believe that all businesses throughout the country should conduct their business in a manner that minimizes the way they impact the environment. This is especially true of businesses like ours that have to dispose of large amounts of debris. By going to extremes to promote recycling and responsible disposal of the materials from our demolition projects, we make sure we are doing our part to keep the world we live in a beautiful place."

Next Day Demolition is a full-service Rockville Maryland demolition company that specializes in safe and reliable demolition services across the entire state of Maryland. Communities they serve include such locations as Aspen Hill, Derwood, and many Baltimore satellite communities. They also provide demolition services to those in and around the Washington, DC area. If someone is interested in their services and is not sure if they are in the company's service area, all they have to do is place a quick call to them to find out.

They also offer their professional demolition services to residential, governmental, industrial, and commercial customers. Gordon went on to emphasize that there is no such thing as a demolition project that is too big, too small or too difficult for them to do. The crews at Next Day Demolition are also very adept at demolishing everything including individual rooms, attached structures, and stand-alone structures. They also make every effort to do their demolition work in a way that does no harm to surrounding buildings and landscapes. Next Day Demolition's crews are also trained to keep safety at the forefront of every demolition task that they take on.

As was mentioned, this company does more than just demolition work too. They are also experts when it comes to safe and responsible asbestos removal and disposal. Next Day Demolition has the heavy equipment and hauling vehicles that are necessary to do any excavation, junk removal or waste management project too.

Gordon explained as to why they work so hard to get everything just right when doing a demolition project. Gordon states, "Over the years, we have built many long-lasting relationships with clients through hard work, dedication, and excellent customer service. With each job we take on our reputation seems to only get better because of this. It's the number one reason why word-of-mouth is still our best form of marketing. The property owners we work with not only trust our methods and love our results; they've helped us to build a reputation that says Next Day Demolition is a company you can rely on."

This demolition contractor has all of the certificates and licenses that are required for a company to do demolition work in Washington, DC and the entire state of Maryland. That list includes MD Home Improvement Commission License #113276, MD Real Estate Commission License #528370, DC General Contractor-Construction certificate #410517000303, and Baltimore City Certified Demolition Contractor License #381. They are also a demolition company that's fully insured too. Next Day Demolition is always open to answering questions about the licenses, certifications, and insurances that they possess.

One can simply visit their informational website to learn more about the demolition and other services that they offer. When on their website, a person can also do such things as request a free quote and read testimonials from customers that Next Day Demolition has done work for.
