Homeowners in Newport News can choose to wait for months, deal with uncertainty while trying to sell their properties and eventually agree to a reduced ask price to convince a buyer. Alternatively, homeowners can choose the simplest way to sell a house in the city. Dependable Homebuyers has eliminated all the usual hassles and stress associated with selling a house in a buyers market. The whole conventional process is so tedious that many homeowners become frustrated within weeks. Realtors offer their expertise but are helpless when buyers do not come by and those that do avoid making a closing offer.

Selling a house without any help is a daunting challenge. Many homeowners do not win the uphill battle. There are properties that are listed for sale online for nearly a year and the sellers have not secured even one closing offer. The average time on market is not as long but the hassles remain. The process becomes more stressful when homeowners have to keep spending money without knowing if their ongoing investment will yield any return. The return too is dented when a seller has to spend a lot of money on staging, repair or renovation, inspection, appraisal and advertising. If and when a seller succeeds, one must pay the realtor a hefty commission and the closing cost further dents the net return.

Evan Roberts of Dependable Homebuyers says that all such complications and uncertainties can be completely avoided if homeowners turn to them and sell their properties. The We Buy Houses company specializes in residential real estate. The experts at the company can assist homeowners like their personal concierge. Those who are already familiar with the selling process can find solutions. Those who are unaware can get all the relevant information and chart a more pragmatic route to sell their houses in Newport News. Information, resources and practical options are what homeowners need to circumvent the stress and hassle of selling houses in the city.

Dependable Homebuyers deal with owners directly so no realtor or listing service is involved. This means there is no six percent commission that has to be paid to an agent. The company does not look for buyers in the open market so there is no painstaking wait, multiple open houses or showings and endless negotiations. The company inspects houses, determines the fair values and presents nonobligatory cash offers. The purchase offers can be accepted immediately and the We Buy Houses company can close the sale soon after. They take twenty four hours to make the offer and seven days to complete the sale, if sellers agree to an expedited closing. There is no other way that can make selling a house easier, simpler or faster than what Evan Roberts and his team have managed to do. They have been buying houses in Newport News for half a decade now. They buy residential properties anywhere in the city and this is regardless of the current condition of the houses.
