August 02, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Peace Under Pressure has announced its establishment to help women going through a divorce and separation. Based in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Peace Under Pressure is a woman non-profit organization dedicated to assisting and empowering women to manifest their true selves by providing them with resources on wellness and health, including financial education, therapy, and an exclusive self-discovery program. In addition, include access to emergency shelter, affordable and temporary housing. The program is designed to counteract the self-destructive thoughts or behaviours that often arise as a result of a separation, divorce, abuse, or any life-altering event that may have occurred in a woman's life.

A spokesperson for Peace Under Pressure says, "Peace Under Pressure was created as a catalyst for the progression of mental, emotional, financial, and spiritual health. We want women to strive for an understanding of self and, to progressively become more aware of the decisions they make in their lives. With this understanding, the organization hopes to lead women towards living a healthy and fulfilling life with direction and purpose." The organization endeavours to develop a community of creative women who desire to take control of their lives and move towards becoming the best version of themselves. This requires strength, endurance, durability, flexibility, and understanding that the organization aspires to provide. The process of obtaining and maintaining a life desired and deserved is a continuous effort that Peace Under Pressure understands is a fight that's well worth pursuing.

Peace Under Pressure operates under five principles. The first principle is to love oneself. The organization has been designed to help members ask and answer several questions about themselves. The goal is to stimulate thought-provoking realizations that result in a change in members' motivation for life and to promote a positive attitude towards the accomplishment of personal goals. We are now encouraging others to be part of the system and to donate to us.?

The second principle is the community. The organization is comprised of a tight-knit community in which each member supports and uplifts others. The third principle is to find a specific purpose. Several physical and mental activities are suggested to all members to encourage them to recognize their boundaries and discover their strengths.

The fourth principle is for members to work in their purpose. When the members help others, they can grow into their best selves. The fifth principle is to teach others what you have learned. The goal of the organization is to bring together a group of motivated women who have come a long way and decided to make a positive change in their lives. As they arrive at their best potential, they must also help others find their way.

Peace Under Pressure was established by Nemadia Knuckles and will be Incorporated in August 2019. Those who would like to learn more about and support the organization can visit the Peace Under Pressure website at <https://peaceunderpressure.org/> or find them on Facebook or by email.
