August 02, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bethalto, Ill. ? Keeping the customers at the forefront of any business model is critical to the success or failure of a small business. A Bethalto shipping store recognizes this and has come up with an exciting way to provide their community with much need packing and shipping services but save them some money with their Drop-Off Bucks monthly special.

Each month, customers of The Mail Box Store can drop off their prepaid UPS, FedEx, or DHL packages for shipping and receive a discount on the store?s other premier services such as video to DVD transfers, moving supplies, printing or shredding. The company changes the offer each month and the deal for that particular month is printed on to the customers' receipt after the package or letter has been dropped off for shipping.

The Bethalto professional packing experts are always looking for new ways to serve their community and customers, keeping their service at the forefront of their business model. ?Our Mission Statement is simple and instilled into every employee that puts on The Mail Box Store uniform?? states the company?s website, ?To provide all customers with the best retail, shipping & printing experience possible through quality choices, reliable options, and unparalleled customer service.?

First opening their doors as Eagle Express Mail in 2007, the company has continued to grow over the years and now offers multiple locations across the United States. ?As our company grows and expands our vision has remained steady. To generate a financially successful company that will give customers a one-stop shipping, packaging and printing experience, as well as develop our store concept nationwide,? the website continues.

The Mail Box Store provides a number of services such as expert packaging, shipping, mail receiving, faxing, key duplicating, notary, online access, office supplies, and more. The company rises above its competition by adding personalized customer service to each transaction and offering alternatives in prices and shipping companies. They aim to connect their customers to the rest of the world with the products and services they sell whether it?s for business or personal needs.

People are encouraged to contact The Mail Box Store as soon as possible to utilize their Drop-Off Bucks offers or to follow them on Facebook to see what the next offer will be.
