Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. in Columbus Georgia is pleased to announce that local clients may now seek their reliable legal representation. The firm?s expertise spans a wide variety of auto accident cases, and they boast a wealth of experience serving clients at other locations across the state.

Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. presents one of the best success rates in Columbus, where they have helped hundreds of clients represent their best interests in court. Despite this stellar reputation, they still make every effort to reach out to the small sample of individuals who still do not know about their services as they assert that it is of the utmost importance for auto accident victims to receive the best legal representation possible.

Tim Derrickson, a representative of the firm, asserts, "Many do not realize just how important it is to seek the proper legal representation in these cases. They assume that the law will be on their side because they are the victim, and they will be more than fine with contracting any attorney, but this is not the case. The best practice to ensure that they receive the compensation that they are entitled to is to seek an attorney who specializes in, and is familiar with, these cases, as they will be able to devise the best strategy to represent their clients effectively."

In practice, this means that victims should seek an auto accident attorney?s services well before they even talk to any insurance company or the legal representatives of other parties involved. There are certain factors that can cloud an individual's judgement following an accident and this can lead them to make statements that compromise their case later on?placing the compensation they are entitled to receive at risk. By contacting an attorney as soon as possible after an accident, the firm asserts that the client can be at ease and focus solely on fully recovering from their injuries while their attorney handles the legal aspects of their accident.

"We make sure that the only concern on our client's minds is what they will do with their compensation once the case is finished," asserts Derrickson. He adds that, throughout their history in legal practice, they have managed to polish and develop the best strategies to effectively represent their clients. He states, "We can skilfully evaluate their cases and devise a strategy to move forward with the process, giving them the best chances to receive fair compensation. We are widely considered one of the best auto accident attorneys in Columbus, and we have a long list of success stories to illustrate the reasons why our clients trust in our expertise."

Through the Google platform, Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. has received several positive reviews showcasing the numerous positive experiences their clients have had with the firm. One of the most recent success stories comes from Stella Aldrin, who suffered several injuries in an automobile accident. She states, "About six months ago, I was injured as a passenger on a motorcycle. A driver of an automobile hit the motorcycle while travelling about 35mph. I am suffering from neck and back pain from the impact. I called the law firm of Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. the next day because I knew I would be taken care of in the best way since they came with great recommendations from acquaintances. My attorney settled my case with a satisfying amount for compensation and all my medical bills were paid. He even managed to secure compensation for the wages I lost while I was in the hospital, which I did not know was possible. I highly recommend anyone with a personal injury case to hire the competent staff and attorneys of this great law firm."
