Vive Polanco Announces Two Expo Events Centered On Departamentos en Polanco

August 20, 2019

August 20, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Mexico City, Mexico based Vive Polanco is pleased to announce two upcoming real estate expo events, to be held in Polanco in September and November. The expos will feature a number of prominent speakers, and are aimed at helping those involved in real estate to learn more about the industry and develop new skills that they may find useful in their careers. Read more about Vive Polanco at the following link: Departamentos en venta Polanco.

The first of the two expos will be held on the tenth of September and will feature the best speakers with the knowledge and experience to help any real estate business reach the next step. The speakers set to attend include Adela Micha, Paola Rojas, Macario Schettino, Sergio Bruna, Mariano Balcarce and Pablo Martinez. The expo invites interested parties to, "Join the thousands of professionals who have prepared and evolved in this new real estate era," and will bring more than four thousand experts and international leaders in the real estate industry together under one roof along with widely recognized brands and franchises, with the goal of helping one another grow and prosper. By sharing their combined decades of knowledge, those who attend the expo will learn new skills and discover new ideas that will help their business grow.

Businesses will also have the opportunity to find new investors, and possibly new clients, through the expo. With so many professionals, investors and other individuals with great interest in the Real Estate industry attending, the expo, beyond simply providing a learning experience, also creates an opportunity to do business with some of the top figures in the industry.

The second expo will be held in November and will be similar to the one held last year at the Hotel Camino Real de Polanco in Mexico City. Considered the seventh most important real estate business summit in Latin America, it will once again gather the most important leaders of the real estate sector. It presents an opportunity for those involved in real estate to share and learn from the expertise, vision, and experience of other distinguished individuals in the business. Last year the expo featured over 120 stands and over 300 investment options in both the United States and Latin America.

A press release describing last year's expo also applies to this year's event. It states, "Within the event, you can be part of the best real estate projects, where about 350 proposals are displayed in an area open to the public free of charge. In addition, you will have the opportunity to make direct contact with the main companies in the sector and presenters of the different exhibited developments."

Vive Polanco is dedicated to helping clients find some of the best real estate in Polanco. Considered one of the best parts of Mexico City for one to live in, Polanco has been growing rapidly for a long time—which is the reason for the large number of developments it has available for purchase. Visit <http://www.digitaljournal.com/pr/4406796> to read more about the real estate available in Polanco.

Vive Polanco states that, "Polanco is composed of numerous streets, from Eugenio Sue to Archimedes, or from Homero Street to Aristotle Streets, this whole area offers the best services, restaurants, and parks in Mexico City, without a doubt. You can spend an afternoon with friends in a restaurant and, in the evenings, know that the best of Polanco's nightlife, culture, dance, and fun await you if you are willing to participate. The presale departments in Polanco are numerous, so you will always have options to choose from and achieve your expectations. Every street from Masaryk Street to Anatole France Street offers pre-sale apartments waiting for you and with a near completion date. Take advantage of the luxury that Polanco offers you."

Vive Polanco is always available to help their clients navigate the real estate market in Polanco, and those interested in finding good properties in the area are encouraged to contact the real estate agency today. One can find out more about Polanco online at the following link: <https://sites.google.com/view/departamentos-en-polanco/>. In addition, the two expos to be held later this year provide a great opportunity for those already in the real estate business to fuel their own growth.
