August 16, 2019 -

Dr. Steven Schram, who is well-known to those looking for a chiropractor near me New York NY, has announced with pride that he has received another rave review on his Google Maps page. The patient explained that he had been suffering from severe pain, headaches, and numbness for the past five years. Despite consulting with many doctors and going to many hospitals and medical providers, they were unable to determine the cause of the pain, much less provide a treatment. It was only when he visited Dr. Schram that he immediately noticed a change.

In the review, the patient with initials M.P. says, ?I have been suffering from severe headaches, pain and numbness since July 2013, the passed 5 years, daily and as time passed things only got worse. I had taken over 10 different medical exams, hospital visits, seen over 20 different medical providers and taken over 30 different medications, yet no one seemed to know what the issue was or reason for my pain. Since my first visit with Dr. Schram I immediately noticed a difference. He knew exactly where and what was causing the pain. I am glad to say I am on the road to recovery all because of Dr. Schram. I highly recommend visiting him. Dr. Schram and his receptionist are both very kind and accommodating, I look forward to all visits. I am beyond thankful for Dr. Schram and his staff.?

Dr. Schram specializes in providing treatment for neck pain, migraines, back pain, and lower back pain. He explains, ?What makes the practice of chiropractic unique is the focus on spinal adjustment and emphasis on manual therapy. We are known for utilizing non-invasive and non-pharmaceutic techniques to maintain optimum body functions.?

Dr. Schram explains that through chiropractic adjustment New York NY patients can get help will all types of problems, from injuries, to headaches, back pain, migraine, arthritis pain, tendonitis, disc problems, carpal tunnel syndrome, and many more. Dr. Schram wants to point out that while many people in New York believe that there are things they have to live with, these things make living in the city extremely difficult. The treatment that he provides is to heal the root cause of the pain rather than use medication to silence the symptoms. He will intuitively and carefully examine the vertebra and joints to find out where there is any misalignment.

The principle for the chiropractic treatment that he provides is that when the spine is out of alignment, this affects the patient?s health and can cause pain. Through the manual application of pressure and adjusting and manipulating the misaligned joints and tissues, the muscle tightness is removed, alleviating pain and allowing the tissues to heal.

With regards to lower back pain, Dr. Schram points out that in most cases, the actual root cause is not the troubled spot but it is just a symptom of a problem from somewhere else. That is why patients need the help of an experienced chiropractor to perform a proper diagnosis and apply the right treatment.
