August 21, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bulldog Heating & Cooling is pleased to announce the expansion of their services to the Edmonton, Alberta area, a move that was made possible through a partnership with another local company, Capital Plumbing & Heating. Both companies possess an extensive history of satisfied customers and excellent services, having served their respective areas for several years. They recently decided to join forces in order to provide a broader selection of services, combining the expertise and experience of both companies into one effective package.

Bob Bies, a representative of Bulldog Heating & Cooling Edmonton, states, "We had been discussing the possibility of a partnership for a while as we deemed that both companies had a common goal, which is to help the community, and we would only benefit from joining our efforts. We have finally been able to make this dream partnership a reality, and we are very excited to finally open our doors to the Edmonton community. Capital Plumbing & Heating has been advising us to ensure that we are fully capable of fulfilling the specific needs that any and all of our new customers at Edmonton may have. While we reckon that they may have different requirements to customers at our other locations, we look forward to serving them to the best of our ability."

Despite their recent arrival in the community, Bulldog Heating & Cooling is already considered one of the best heating and cooling contractors in Edmonton, and are known for providing the highest standard of service to their customers. The company explains that this milestone was achieved in part due to their transparency and customer-centred services?especially since they prioritize the straightforward relationships they maintain with their customers.

"Our technicians aren't salespersons, and we are not here to trick and bait our customers into something they do not need," notes Bies. By relying on a team of professionals, he says, the company can ensure that their customers have the best experience possible. He adds, "It is due to our extensive experience and excellent services that we have been able to expand to this new location, and we urge residents looking for a reliable Edmonton HVAC contractor to give us a chance. We have the utmost confidence they will not be disappointed."

Bulldog Heating & Cooling's technicians are fully certified and have gone through formal training and apprenticeship programs regarding the service and operation of HVAC systems. On top of this, they also possess extensive experience in the field, having familiarized themselves with the most common models of HVAC systems and how to repair them. This gives homeowners a great advantage, as professionals are far more able to ensure the proper installation and function of such expensive and delicate systems.

Bulldog Heating & Cooling Edmonton has already served their first customers in the area, many of whom have expressed their happiness with the service they received. Over multiple platforms, Edmonton residents have shared their experience with the company, outlining some of the traits that differentiate Bulldog from their counterparts in the area. These traits include the company's prompt response to their customer's calls and their thoughtful approach to each job.

In a recent customer review, Daniel Schmit says, "My experience with Bulldog Heating & Cooling was outstanding. From the first contact I had with them over the phone, they were very helpful and thoughtful, and said they would dispatch a technician to attend my case the very same day. Their technician was very knowledgeable, and even took the time to tell me why they had to place piping in certain areas over others and showed me how to use the new thermostat. He kept the workspace clean and did a great job installing my new furnace too. So far, I have had no issues. I recommend Bulldog Heating & Cooling's services since they have been really helpful."
