August 23, 2019 -

San Antonio based We Buy Houses company, Dependable Homebuyers has joined ActiveRain, the largest social network for professionals in the real estate industry. The real estate investment firm owned by Evan Roberts is among the fastest growing and also one of the most innovative home buying companies in San Antonio. According to the founder Evan Roberts, joining ActiveRain is another integral step in its information campaign wherein the company is trying to instill more awareness about the local real estate sector in the city, especially the housing market.

Roberts says that the real estate sector in San Antonio is poised for substantial growth in the short to medium term but there are challenges. Information and awareness are two key issues that the company is trying to address. It has already launched several initiatives to make sellers and buyers more aware of the market conditions. It is also advocating a boost to the construction of new homes as that is the only pragmatic way to maintain a sufficient inventory without letting the home prices skyrocket.

Dependable Homebuyers has been buying houses from homeowners in San Antonio for around nine years now. The company makes direct offers and pays in cash. The purchase offers are put forth after a quick inspection. There is no staging or appraisal. The offer is nonobligatory and if sellers want then the deal can be closed immediately. Going by the track record of how the company has performed over the years, it has proven to be capable of closing deals quickly and can actually complete sales in a week. Roberts and his team are gearing up to share their experiences and expertise with the larger network of real estate professionals in San Antonio and throughout the state of Texas.

Roberts acknowledges that ActiveRain has a treasure-trove of information. There are more than four million blog posts in the network. He intends to publish different types of information that can benefit the industry and everyone associated with it. He also intends for his team to learn from the experiences of other professionals. He says that the moment his firm is unable to evolve and learn more about the ground realities, the challenges and the opportunities that lay ahead, his endeavors will become less consequential and that only continuous growth and transformation can avert that from happening. Here's a recent press release they published.

Dependable Homebuyers intends to be active on the social network, like the other members who have been immensely engaged with the community. Roberts has already started talking about best practices and looks forward to collaborations with professionals with distinct firsthand experiences. Many in the real estate industry are looking forward to a period of sustained growth but that might be elusive if corrective steps are not taken. Several economists have predicted a recession to hit the economy in a few quarters and the housing market could slow down substantially if that happens. The entire real estate sector has to seriously ponder over such possibilities and take proactive measures to avert a crisis. Dependable Homebuyers is likely to pitch for new ideas and timely strategies on ActiveRain.
