August 26, 2019 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Dublin, California ? All-In-One Dental Innovations a Dublin dental office is excited to announce the addition of their new LANAP laser treatment services. The dental office is committed to giving patients the best care possible, and this includes adding the latest technology possible for better results and added comfort. The new LANAP laser treatment is designed to make periodontal services less painful, replacing the need for traditional surgery solutions.

The only option, until lasers were introduced into the field, for treating advanced gum disease and deterioration was with surgery. Patients would often put off having this procedure because of the recovery time and pain associated with surgery. But the LANAP laser, created by Millennium Dental Technologies, Inc. has changed the way modern dentistry approaches gum disease.

The laser-assisted regeneration is much more comfortable for patients while offering a quicker recovery time. LANAP targets the exact source of the inflammation at and below the gumline. Unlike surgery that required a dentist to remove portions of the gum, even healthy tissue, the LANAP laser doesn't. The laser treatment can also slow or complete stop attachment loss and reduce pocket depth. There?s no scalpel or sutures needed.

For those that are suffering from gum disease, it is essential not to delay treatment. Dr. James Huang, founder of the Dublin dentist office, All-In-One Dental has said, "Periodontal Diseases impact your gums and the bones in your mouth which hold your teeth in their proper places. Periodontal disease is the number one reason for tooth loss" on the possible result of leaving periodontal disease untreated.

Dr. Huang is committed to having the latest technology and equipment available in his Dublin, CA, office. With the addition of the LANAP laser treatment, this is one more way for him and his office to deliver amazing results that are less painful and more comfortable to their patients.
