

Why Solar String Lights Are Replacing Traditional Plug-in String Lights

July 31, 2015

July 31, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

DeVida International, a business in Chula Vista, CA, has recently started offering solar string lights. In so doing, they believe to have hit a rapidly emerging part of the market, as it has been shown that solar string lights are replacing traditional plug-in string lights very rapidly. DeVida International is keen to explain why and to promote their own product in the process.

Sandra from DeVida International is quoted as saying: "We are offering a beautiful set of 100 fairy lights, fully solar powered. As a company, we have always been focused on sustainability and green solutions, and we are happy to see that the market is responding positively to this. We hope that it won't be long until plug-in string lights are a thing of the past altogether."

There are many reasons why solar string lights are becoming so popular. The fact that they are sustainable and eco friendly is a major reason. By moving away from plug-in models, no electricity or fossil fuels are wasted. This also helps people to save money, as sunlight is available in abundance and is completely free.

Solar string lights are also very user friendly. As soon as it is dark enough, the lights switch on automatically, illuminating the garden or any other area where they are placed. This means there is also no need to worry about where outlets are, or whether extension cords are able to reach.

"Our solar string lights are available on a buy on Amazon deal," adds Sandra. "Our lights are completely waterproof and portable, and recharge time and again using the power of the sun. We trust in the quality of our product so much that we also offer a full year 100% money back guarantee."

The DeVida solar string lights have been very positively reviewed on Amazon. "Just opened our Solar Fairy Lights and LOVE THEM," says Alfonso Lobato. "Unlike electrically powered lights, these solar powered lights are safe, super simple to use, outdoor rated and hassle free. These are the best decorative lights we have ever seen. And we know we are saving energy and helping the environment."

###

For more information about DeVida International, contact the company here: DeVida International Sandra 1-844-784-8432 Contact@devidaInternational.com 2220 Otay Lakes Road Ste 502-129 Chula Vista, CA 91915

DeVida International

At DeVida we're dedicated to bringing our customers thoughtfully designed Home And Garden products that bring style, comfort and convenience to their lives. We believe in protecting the environment and create products that are eco-friendly.

Website: <http://DeVidaInternational.com>

Email: Contact@devidaInternational.com

Phone: 1-844-784-8432

Powered by PressAdvantage.com