Plano, TX based Builder Hot Spots is pleased to shine a spotlight on Altura Homes, a builder on their platform who has achieved an exceptional reputation among their clients. Altura relies on a wealth of experience spanning nearly four decades to build dream homes for their customers.

Widely considered Dallas/Fort Worth?s premier home builder, Altura Homes is known for the dedication and expert craftsmanship that they bring to every home building project, a distinguished reputation that they have earned and tended over the course of generations. They state, ?We have made the dream of owning a new home a reality for hundreds of families by integrating thoughtful home designs to match our homeowners? unique lifestyles. At Altura Homes, we know community is an important piece of life, and our communities provide the conveniences of the city while offering scenic views and privacy.?

As part of their founding principles, the company believes in maintaining a deep involvement with their community. ?Since we are in the business of building homes that often house entire families,? says Altura, ?we are able to see the ongoing results of our labor every single day. Houses that we built 30 years ago are still going strong today, and the children of the newlyweds who moved in back then may now be starting their own families. It gives us a deep sense of accomplishment to see the lives we have touched.? This commitment to giving back to their community is also why Altura proudly supports other initiatives and organizations who work for the betterment of fellow Texans.

For instance, the company is currently involved with Operation Finally Home, a national nonpartisan/nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization that has provided custom built, mortgage free homes to combat veterans who have been injured in the line of duty and the widows of fallen soldiers who have made the ultimate sacrifice protecting the US, its freedoms, values, and way of life. As they state, ?Our roots run deep in Texas. Since 1979, we have not only built homes, but developed communities that fosters many long-lasting relationships. This gives us a distinct opportunity to create strong bonds and give back to benefit local communities?especially since we are proud to call them home.?

Those looking to become new homeowners also stand to benefit greatly from this home building lineage. The company says, ?At Altura Homes, we have a passion for designing and constructing quality homes in the best communities in the Greater Dallas/Fort Worth Area. One way Altura Homes makes it easier than ever to invest in your dream home is with our quick move-in home options, saving you time and allowing you to move in quickly. Altura states that they are currently building homes in the neighborhoods of Creek Crossing (Melissa, TX), Sonoma Verde (Rockwall, TX), The Meadows (Aubrey, TX), and so on. Homebuyers are invited to visit the builder?s official website to learn which communities they are active in.

However, the website also boasts additional functionality that homebuyers will find invaluable in the search for a new home. Alongside standard listings, the website allows users to quickly browse Altura?s catalog of available homes by denoting their preferred specifications in the built-in search engine. This means that users may look up homes that fit certain criteria, such as a maximum or minimum price, number of bedrooms and bathrooms, and so on. They may also request more information about the property via the included contact form, or explore further to look up the property?s floor plan, driving directions (via Google Maps), and more.

Interested parties are invited to visit Altura Homes? official website to learn more about their homes, business practices, and community initiatives. Through the website, visitors may also check out the company?s blog for tips and advice on nurturing a home. In addition, homebuyers and other parties may contact Cat Nguyen of Builder Hot Spots to make further inquiries, and connect with each company through their respective social media platforms to stay up to date with their news, offers, and announcements.
