

Pacesetter Homes Now Featured On Builder Hot Spots Site

February 10, 2020

February 10, 2020 -
Builder Hot Spots, a company based in Plano, Texas, has announced that the home builder, Pacesetter Homes, has been added as one of the featured builders on their site. Pacesetter Homes is a leader in the home building industry that serves the greater Dallas metroplex area. Its quality designs and constructions, and reliability of service, have earned them several awards.

Cat Nguyen from Builder Hot Spots says, ?We?re very glad and excited to feature another reliable builder on our site. Pacesetter Homes was established by QUALICO in 2007 and 10 years later, the Builder magazine considered them to be one of the top 10 fastest growing home builders in the US. In 2018, this particular home builder expanded into the Dallas market. Through Pacesetter Homes, you will likely find great designs, with open, inviting spaces ? but you will also find enthusiasm, craftsmanship and a true love of what they do.?

There are a number of homes built by Pacesetter Homes in several neighborhoods in the Dallas Fort Worth area that are featured on the Builder Hot Spots site. These include the homes at Stone Creek in Rockwall, Texas, with sizes ranging from 2,597 to 3,640 square feet, and prices ranging from 359,900 to $429,900; homes at Creek Crossing in Melissa, Texas, with sizes ranging from 1,970 to 3,384 square feet, and prices ranging from $289,900 to $407,500; homes at Parks at Legacy in Prosper, Texas, with sizes ranging from 1,970 to 3,384 square feet, and prices ranging from $379,900 to $489,900; and homes at Woodridge in Oak Point, Texas, with sizes ranging from 1,981 to 3,387 square feet, and prices ranging from $299,900 to $420,000.

The Builder Hot Spots site is designed to help would-be home buyers make the right decision when buying a new home. As such, it also contains a blog page with articles that can assist potential home buyers about the kinds of homes to buy, when to buy a new home, whether they should buy or simply rent a home, and more. Some of the topics of the articles on the blog page are: deciding whether it would make more financial sense to buy a home instead of renting it; the things to do during spring 2019 to maintain the home properly; and three graphs about the real estate market that potential home buyers might want to study before buying a home.

Aside from the blog posts, the website also presents several press releases about events that can affect home buying decisions. These include the 12 new home builders that are currently building homes in the Windsong Ranch community in Prosper, Texas; the attraction of lower taxes in cities in Texas like Prosper; MainVue Homes? expansion efforts in the Dallas Fort Worth area, specifically in Allen; and the increasing number of companies relocating to Frisco, Texas.

Another feature of the Builder Hot Spots website that would-be home buyers will find helpful is its online search tools. It has a Quick Search tool to help people search for homes by neighborhoods in a particular city or by certain builders. The searcher can choose a particular city, and indicate the desired community status of the home and/or the preferred community-style, and the builder's search tool on the site can also be used by potential home buyers. They can simply go for the ?All Builders? option or choose a specific builder from a drop-down menu.

Various cities in the Dallas Fort Worth area where new homes can be purchased are featured at the Builders Hot Spot site. These include Arlington, Allen, Argyle, Colleyville, Carrollton, Celina, Forney, Dallas, Flower Mound, Irving, Frisco, Grand Prairie, Little Elm, Keller, Lantana, Oak Point, Mansfield, McKinney, Roanoke, Plano, Prosper, The Colony, and Rowlett. This site also provides an online search tool that allows people to look for new homes by city.

Those who are interested in buying a quality home from an award-winning home builder, like Pacesetter Homes, in the Dallas Fort Worth area can visit the Builder Hot Spots website or contact them using the telephone or by email.
