September 09, 2019 -
Mazzeo Law Barristers & Solicitors, a law firm based in Vaughan, Ontario, has announced that they are offering their services for those who need a prenuptial agreement lawyer. Couples who want to protect themselves regardless of what the future has in store for them are seeking for a qualified prenup lawyer to help them draft a prenuptial agreement that will protect each individual in case what is unforeseen happens in the future.

A spokesperson for Mazzeo Law says, ?It?s important, particularly for high net worth individuals, to enter into prenup agreements with a clear path to asset protection. Whether you have significant assets or not, you should ensure that your future rights are protected in the event of separation. A prenup lawyer from our team will go over your options with you and help you build the ideal agreement.?

The spokesperson also wants to point out that a strong prenuptial agreement can actually help strengthen the bond of the couple. It may mean that there would be little incentive for them to separate in the future and the couple will start their life together on the same page, particularly with regards to their financial and other goals.

The prenuptial agreement has to be watertight and created based on existing family laws in Ontario and Canada. The family law team members at Mazzeo Law have substantial experience with prenup agreements that comply with current legal standards. Thus, couples who are getting married are encouraged to book a consultation with a prenup lawyer at Mazzeo Law and take advantage of their decades of legal experience.

Aside from prenuptial agreements, Mazzeo Law also offers other family law services. These include child support, separation, divorce, spousal support, child custody, matrimonial services, and domestic contracts.

The child support team of lawyers are tasked with protecting the obligation to pay child support to a dependent child, which is mandatory in Ontario. They are ready to provide advice and legal support for clients in protecting their child?s right to get support in order to ensure a secure future for the child.

They also have a team of lawyers that can help couples with regards to the legal separation papers required when separating from a long-term partner. The lawyers can help the couple find an ideal resolution so that they can move on with their lives.

With regards to divorce, the lawyers at Mazzeo Law can help the couple resolve all issues foremost in the minds of separating couples. Their service is focused on long-term support and guidance to ensure that both individuals get the result that they want, especially when it comes to their children.

The issue of spousal support can also be handled by the lawyers at Mazzeo Law. This is to ensure that a spouse will not have to suffer financial hardship because of the separation or divorce. While there are no provincial or federal guidelines for spousal support, there are Spousal Support Advisory Guidelines, which are considered by the court when determining whether a person is eligible for spousal support.
