Ron's Amazing Products, a business in Catonsville, Maryland, has today re-released their pen camera on eBay. The listing can be seen on <http://www.ebay.com/itm/131561381800>. The product has been relisted with the exact same price.

"Our camera pen was so popular that we sold out very quickly," says Ronald Hoff from Ron's Amazing Products. "We have now restocked on the pen and have relisted it, leaving it at the exact same price. We have also anticipated further demand, so that the pen should not run out of stock as quickly this time."

Ron's Amazing Products is an eBay operated business, as can be seen on <http://www.ebay.com/usr/ronsamazing>. They sell a variety of products across a range of niches, including technology, gadgets and health products. Furthermore, when they come across more products that they feel are 'amazing' they will be listed as well. As such, customers are encouraged to follow the eBay store so that they are kept up to date with new developments.

In terms of the camera pen, it has been very well received. One reviewer stated: "Excellent seller. Item as described. Fast shipping. Will order again."

However, some customers felt that the instructions were somewhat lacking and didn't feel they could get the most out of their product as it was. Listening to their customers, Ron's Amazing Products have also released a YouTube video on <http://www.youtube.com/user/ronsamazingproducts>, which shows exactly how the pen should be used and what its different features are. "Camera pens are not complicated to use," adds Ronald Hoff. "However, a lot of people prefer seeing how something operates, rather than having to read about it and then hope they have understood the instructions properly. Our video shows all the different features of the camera pen and how it can best be used."

The camera pen has an 8GB built in memory. It captures images in full HD effect. Furthermore, it has a 60 minute built-in lithium battery that can easily be recharged through USB. Thanks to its plug and play operations, it is also very easy to use. Whether used for fun or for professional spy operations, this is a great item.
