September 06, 2019 -
Green City Dental, a dental office in Edmonds, Washington, has announced that Rebecca Taylor, DDS, one of their dentists, has discovered a way to relieve dental anxiety without using narcotic based sedatives. As a biological dental office, they offer options for dental sedation that are non-narcotic but effective. This is because at Green City Dental, they are concerned not just with dental problems but with the overall health of the patient.

For minor procedures that last for 90 minutes or less, such as crowns, single tooth extraction and single implants, IV sedation is provided. Patients are placed in a semi-conscious state and can breathe on their own. For more extensive procedures, such as multiple implants or full mouth reconstruction, general anesthesia is usually provided. Here, the patient is completely unconscious and put on a ventilator for breathing. Dr. Andrew Koogler, a medical doctor who is board certified both in pain management and anesthesia, handles both general anesthesia and IV sedation for the dental office.

Dr. Rebecca Taylor says, ?We offer meticulous, uncompromising, state-of-the-art dental care with a commitment to honoring and caring for the beauty, importance and sovereignty of ourselves and every person we have the privilege to serve with love, joy, compassion, and respect. Our non-narcotic dental sedation procedures are part of our holistic dentistry efforts.?

Dr. Taylor practices biological and minimally invasive dentistry. She works closely with her patients so that she can educate them and develop customized treatment plans that are suitable for each patient?s specific values and needs. She has trained in ozone therapy, safe mercury amalgam removal tooth remineralization, laser dentistry, neuromuscular dentistry, Invisalign with PROPEL, non-invasive therapies for snoring and/or sleep apnea, and non-surgical periodontal therapy. Their office is fluoride-free, mercury-safe, and mercury-free. They only use digital x-rays and only take them when necessary.

In a recent patient review, Sharon H. gave them five stars and said, ?Green City Dental has been a totally different dental experience for me. For the first time, a practitioner looked at the reason for my TMJ discomfort which is an overbite. I am now wearing an appliance to correct this. Not a simple night guard, an appliance that will realign my mandible to my maxilla. My positive experiences have not diminished since my first visit. [...] Without hesitation, I recommend Doctor Taylor and all of her staff. From the front office, to Lily, to the dental assistant Shelby, to the hygienist Barbara, I applaud you all for your professionalism, your patience in answering my questions and your attention to my holistic health. Thank you!?
